THE EXPECT UNEXPECTED

I think it was the military helicopter landing on the football field last spring when I realized-- Chicopee Comprehensive High School is a place where anything can happen-- anything. All kinds of strange and amazing things can happen. We can win the sword game. We can go to the presidential inauguration. With our Career Technical side we can build houses and weld giant metal butterflies. We can watch the Red Sox battle towards miraculous victory! We can learn that there will be no school newspaper and then hear that it has been revived. We can dress in totally ridiculous fashion during spirit week and homecoming and get wild. With our diverse student body, we can become friends with any kind of person. It is like a giant show in which you never know who will make the next entrance or who is ready for an encore. For seniors, the curtain will soon fall on their time at CCHS, but we know that they will walk into the world with a flair for the unusual and unexpected.

In the first week of school, we find parents, not students in the cafeteria. During orientation, Mr. Kozikowski addresses onlooking parents.

Who is behind the mask? Aubrey Martin perfects her skills. She plans to research and weld metal bookshelves for her senior project.

In the huddle, students come up with a plan to take in all the Big E has to offer.

Kayla Glasson and Katie Krow had a few minutes after lunch. These two young ladies show personality and style.

Morning music means it is time to go to period one. Until then, students interact near the main office.

"Our brightest blazes of gladness are commonly kindled by unexpected sparks."

Friends Alli Cookish, Emliy Slachetka, Jenn Villemaire, Nicole Lambert and Kira Bouchard show off their unique style at the Junior Prom. The prom was the perfect night to spend time with close friends and make memories that will last forever.

CAST HISTORY

Hanging out together by the pool is always a fun time during the summer. Brittany Castonguay, Sarah Peloquin and Alli Cookish get together here at a party freshman year. Relaxing with friends is the best way to spend your summer days.

At Ashley's 16th birthday party, these girls enjoyed a day together celebrating by the pool. Jess Vanasse, Diana Galecki, Jess Fernandes, Ashley Bernardos and Cheri Bergeron joined in on the celebration.

SCENES FROM THE PAST

Feeling like princesses, Jen Blair and Michele Rokowski walk down the staircase arriving at the junior prom. "I felt beautiful that night, but my dress was so hard to dance in!" said Jen.

Looking back on the past three years we've spent here at Chicopee Comp, the memories, friendships, feelings, and special moments all come to mind. Each of these made our years here memorable in their own way. As freshman, we entered this building young and afraid-- unsure of what to expect. With a class size close to 500, intimidating upperclassmen, and a large new building to get used to, 9th grade was a year of adjustments. When sophomore year came, we started to feel as if we belonged, though we were stuck right in the middle. As our class became smaller, our spirit continued to grow. Junior year quickly approached, and we experienced with our new found freedom, and a stressful yet unforgettable year. Finally as upperclassmen, the class of 2005 was anxious for powderpuff, spirit week, and our first prom. One year away from being on top, we were all excited to become seniors and to end our high school experience with the best year yet. As we try to capture the moments of the past on these pages, we remember the friendships we've formed, experiences we've gone through, and all the memories that can never be forgotten.

"It's ironic that my dress matched the tropical theme at the prom," said Amanda Swider. Here, Heather Banks and Amanda take a second away from dancing to capture this moment forever.

Michele Rokowski, Brittany Castonguay and Lindsay Martin spend a night together up at Kyle Robert's camp. "The camp was a great place to go during the summer. We all had so much fun out on the lake," said Michele.

These sophomores really showed their true colors during Spirit Week. Ashley Bernardos, Kaiti Los and Alli Cookish take a moment out of Czap's contemporary problems class to pose in purple.

WE DO NOT REMEMBER DAYS; WE REMEMBER MOMENTS. ~CESARE PAVESE

Remember the good times that we've had; don't let them slip away when things get bad.

Eric Dube, Brandon Mancini, and Darryl Gagnon strut their stuff at the winter cotillion. They always enjoy dressing up for the ladies.

Good times and good food tops it all off. The girls got together at Stacy Haesaert's birthday party freshman year.

Hanging out after a long day in the sun, Adam Depelteau and Katie Marcotte take the time to relax. "Sometimes you just need some down time to talk to someone", says Katie.

Sarah Peloquin helps Brittany Castonguay put on her diamond necklace for the Cotillion. They were nervous and excited for their first high school formal occasion.

Freshman friends Ashley Bernardos, Michele Rokowski, and Lindsay Martin take a moment to show how little time in high school it took them to bond.

Through rain or snow, the blizzard didn't stop the girls from getting to their first cotillion. It was definitely a great storm but also a great time.

JUST THE BEGINNING

Freshman year was a time of scary but exciting feelings; we were full of new experiences; meeting new people, and getting used to the halls crowed with upperclassmen. The first sword game was a rush of spirit. Cotillion was full of snow, but was a night celebrating new friendships. Spirit Week brought our class closer together wearing brown. Graduation seemed so far away. Mistakes were made, but we all hoped to learn from them. It was a new chapter of our lives that was a start of four unforgettable years.

By: Diana Galecki

Suprise! Danielle Viens turns sixteen and was shocked by her three good friends Leah Zapponi, Jessica Duranda, and Nicole Amlaw.

No.. Freshman don't stink! We showed class spirit in Ms. Potorski's English 9 during spirit week. No matter what, 2005 was ready to show what they're about.

SCENES FROM ACT TWO - CLASS HISTORY

Kyra O'Donnell and Jeffrey Fairbanks enjoy the Cotillion in their Sophomore year.

Meghan Montemagni, Sarah Peloquin, and Brittany Castonguay spend time together before school on the first day of their sophomore year.

Dave Fredette and Linday Martin hang out with their friends at a party. Two years later, they will both be winners in the senior ballot.

Michelle Rokowski and Ashley Bernardos spend some time at Michele's house before going to the Cotillion.

AS THE ACT CONTINUES ...

Sophomore year was a time when we felt a little older and more adjusted to the school. For once, we didn't feel like the babies of the school. Getting class rings showed everyone's individual styles. Selling candy gave us a head start on class dues. The Cotillion was another time of dressing up and dancing the night away. When spirit week came along, wearing purple showed our desire to win but at the same time have fun. The year was a learning experience that helped us grow together.

-Kyra O'Donnell & Amber Paradysz

Brittany Castonguay, Kaiti Los, and Lindsay Martin were having a crazy time sophomore year. Before they knew it, the year was over.

Ending the summer of their junior year, Eddie Huard, Mike Ciaccio, Diana Galecki, Meghan Montemagni, Lindsay Martin, Brittany Castonguay, Christie Sullivan, and Shauna Sullivan have a little get together. Getting exited and anxious for their upcoming senior year, these juniors spend a night hanging out at a friends house.

Showing their school spirit, Derek Krow, Brian Gaouette, Dave Fredette, Adam Depelteau, and Brandon Mancini paint themselves so that each has their own letter to spell "COLTS." Participating in school activities such as the sword game pays off. The Colts won the sword back from Chicopee High.

DRESS REHEARSAL

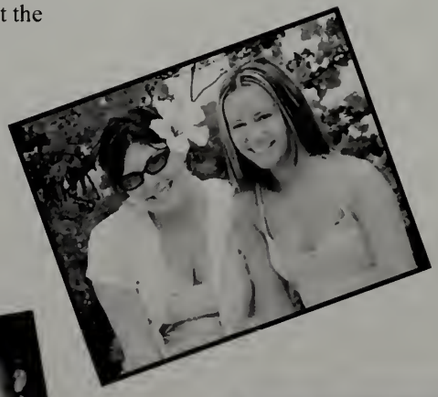
Junior year was a year of fun and exitement. Finally upperclassmen, we started to focus on our class dues and junior prom. Everyone was trying to get their dues paid off so they could attend all of the activities for senior week. We also started thinking about SAT's. Preparing for the SAT's caused frustration and confusion, but we took them so we could do what we want with our future. The sword game was crazy. With an early lead, the pacers gave us a scare, but in the end we had a breakthrough and won the sword. Spirit week was awesome. Everyone had so much spirit and participated in all the activities. The seniors won, but it was really close between us. Junior prom was coming up and everyone was going crazy looking for dresses and tuxes. This was our first prom so we were really exited. Chez Josef was a beautiful place to have our prom. "The best part of the prom was getting free Shirley Temples all night." said Heather Banks. Junior year was a year that we will always cherish. We will never forget the memories that we had together as the class of 2005.

-Megan Cormier

"These are the days worth living... let's make the best out of our lives."

-The Calling

I love New York! Juniors Diana Galecki and Jess Vanesse show their enthusiasm. They were two of many students who went to New York City to see TRL - Total Request Live at the MTV studios.



Friends since freshmen year, Brittany Castonguay, Justin Rhodes, and Kaiti Los huddle together for a quick hug. The three were hanging out with close friends during the summer of their junior year. "That night was a lot of fun, hanging out with your closest friends is what summer is all about," says Brittany.

STARS OF THE SHOW

Friends since freshman year, Tina Densmore and Ashley Chapdelaine take a break from their art work to capture a memory. Tina has also been actively involved in the Debate Team.

Senior year is a year that will never be forgotten. We proceed through out senior year and begin to think about our futures." High school was a fun time, see you when I'm rich," said Eric Paquette. We all started preparing for SAT's and looking into colleges. Everything is starting to become a reality. Leah Zapponi said "I plan on still having fun, but I also look ahead to furthering my education in college and becoming a pediatrician." We look back on the years and remember the good times, proms, cotillions, spirit weeks, and parties. What will be remembered most of all is the friendships that have been made and experiences shared. Heather Banks said "Prom was such a blast- - being all dressed up and with friends. I loved it." High school has definitely taught all of us about who we are and what we want to be. It has also helped us learn from different experiences and situations. But as we walk through those doors for the last time, we will always remember the memories and the footprints left in our hearts from our senior year.

Best friends Jen Blair and Kate Beauregard pause in the hallway. Talking with friends between the bells helps us get through the hard classes our senior year.

Always smiling, April Goodman, Natalia Gonzalez, and Jess Fernandes show their spirit by wearing school colors. These colors are also worn by the senior class during spirit week and help distinguish them from underclassmen.

The seniors gather together all dressed up and painted for a huddle. They enthusiastically show their spirit before the sword game.

Taking a moment in the library, Mike Ciaccio gathers together April Goodman and Cheri Bergeron to show his love for the girls.

" A milestone passed, new things begun, dreams as shining as the sun, a goal achieved, a victory won."
- Unknown

Enjoying another fun filled day in art, Alicia Pare, Curt Galiatsos, and Pedro Alicea work diligently while Amie Rousseau and Justin Rhodes goof around.

During Calculus, William Kenney and Matt Malave discuss a difficult problem. Though it is a tough class, these seniors still find time to have a little fun.

Making their

A year of change

Freshman year can be a very intimidating year. Not knowing what to expect, whether or not friends are going to be in your classes, where to go, or how the upperclassman are going to react to you can be unsettling or downright intimidating. Although it can be scary, it can also be exciting. How many opportunities do you get to meet so many new people, new teachers, and encounter a whole new atmosphere? There are also many things that you are able to look forward to such as parties, dances, cotillions, and spirit weeks. Freshman year is full of new feelings and emotions. Many may see freshman year as a welcome challenge; they are eager to find new exciting experiences. Freshman year means leaving childhood behind. Freedoms and possibilities open up to you. Being able to be on your own can be good and bad. Although you may lose touch with old friends, it also opens up the chance to make new friends. Once students see how CCHS "works," they can find a way to make the best of it.

Hanging out in the hallway during lunch, Jose Lucena, Amie Smola, Edwin Silva, and Jeremy Arsenault take some time to recuperate from work and classes. There seem to be too few opportunities to unwind and be yourself.

After a long night of fun, Alex Philips and Alicia Bernardos take a minute to relax and enjoy each others company. You can always find these two together.

Enjoying their time together Nicole Merola, Rachel Craig, Samantha Cookish, and Alicia Bernardos squeeze together to capture a moment. These girls always know how to have fun and laugh with each other.

Taking a moment between classes, Jessica Provenzano, Caitlyn Clarke, and Shannon Heroux show what good friends they really are. "Being a freshman made me a little nervous, but it is not as bad as I thought it was going to be," said Caitlyn.

Having a great time, the boys take a second to show off there snappy outfits. Freshman year is always full of fooling around and fun. Sometimes it is the last burst of goofiness before the peer pressure to be "cool" sets in.

Brand New Friendships

Brittney Muldoon and Marissa Montemagni chat at lunch. "She's a good friend. We can always make each other laugh," said Marissa.

Kelly, Olivia Galecki, and Melissa Hart are taking a break before their last class of the day. It's good to find familiar faces in all the hustle of the halls.

Keeping their friendships strong, these girls stand together at lunch.

New Versus Old

Freshman year is a start of a new beginning. You may have some of the same friends from the past, but you meet many different kinds of people. The experiences you go through with friends help you realize who is real. Each friendship will be a memory kept and treasured.

First Impressions of high school

"I was really nervous the first couple weeks of school. But once I got used to my surroundings I started to enjoy it. The seniors are pretty nice this year, and they were the ones that I thought I was going to have to worry about. Now I'm looking forward to my future years of high school," says Aaron Suglia.

"I was so excited to come to high school. Being able to be in the same school as my sister was definitely something to look forward to. It's going to be sad when she graduates this year. I won't have her to rely on," says Alicia Bernardos. "But I definitely think I'll still enjoy it," she added.

"I thought high school was going to be one of the hardest things to go through. There are so many people in this school compared to elementary and junior high; it's such a big change. But I have enjoyed the couple of months that have already gone by, and I'm definitely ready for the rest of this year and the future years to come", says Ashlee Brunelle.

"I was really excited to come to high school. I was totally looking forward to meeting a whole bunch of new people. I thought the teachers were going to be tough on all us freshmen, but they all were really nice. I'm really enjoying this year, and I think the rest of it is going to go great", says Sarah Owen.

"I thought that high school was going to be so intimidating-- having so many students, so much more than junior high. I didn't think that I was going to enjoy it, but I am loving it. I've met so many new people," says Catherine Jordan.

Celebrity Frosh

Gee they look familiar, and yet unexpected. Glamorous, well dressed, and oozing with personality, "VP" Fennessey and Keith Fennessey traded personas for the day. The one in pants even has Yu-Gi-Oh cards in her pockets!

Moving Up

Sophomore year may not be the most exciting, but it helps when students start to open up and actually become part of the school. This is the year when you get class advisors, get class rings, and even start paying your class dues.

This is also the year when you are not the youngest anymore; you finally have seniority over someone. Spirit week also seems more important because now you know that everyone does it, and it's almost impossible to look stupid.

Sophomore year can be a fun year if you make it that way, and even though it is only your second year just think-- its close will mark the half way point of your high school career.

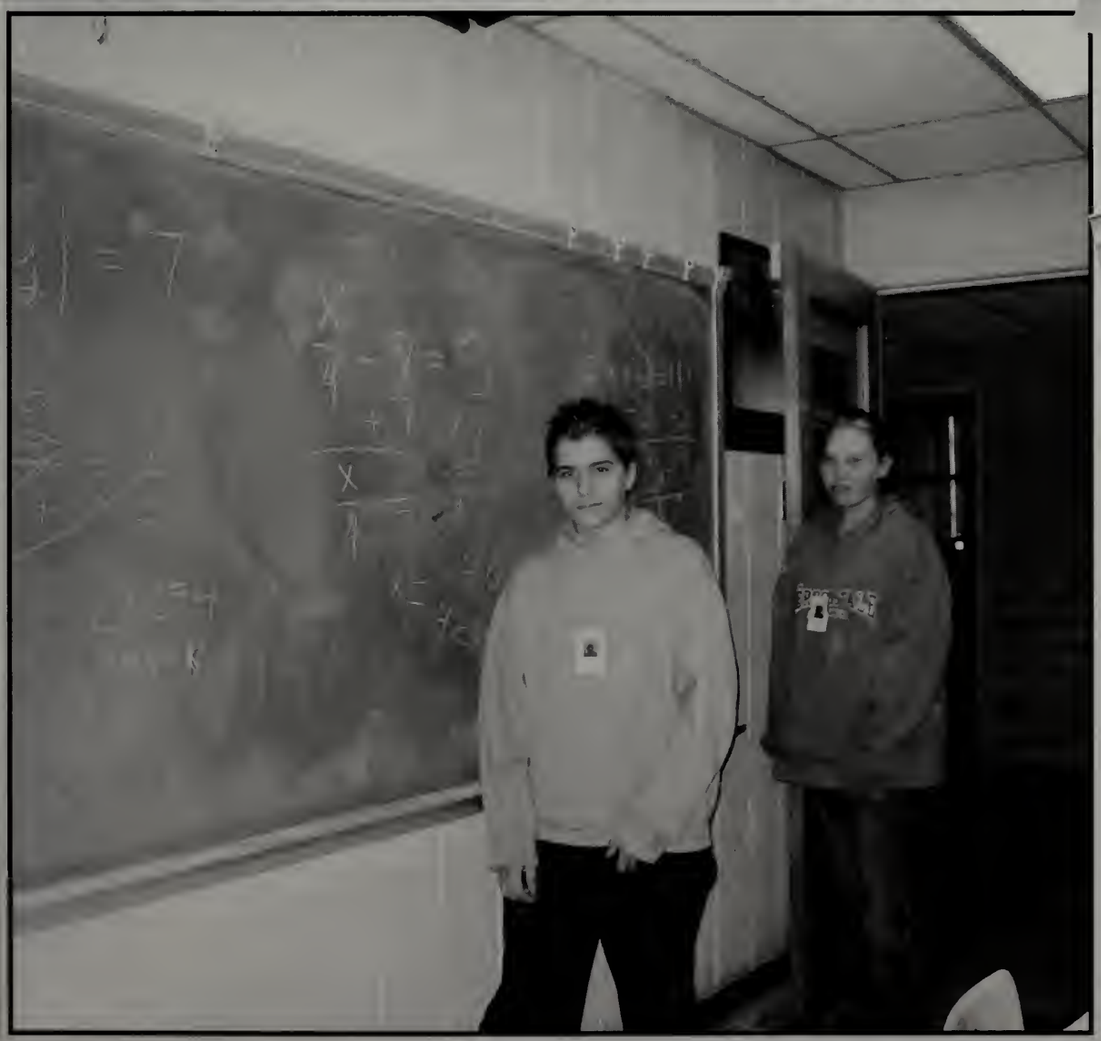
-Joann Buchanan-

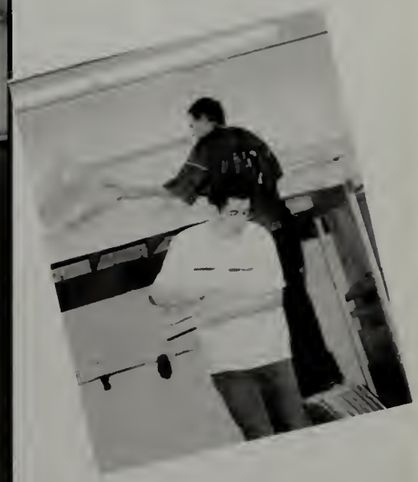
On dress up day these friends went as all different kinds of characters, but that does not stop them from being a lot alike at heart and such good friends. Plus it shows school spirit!

This big group of people show off their school spirit before a game. All these friends love going to games and having fun together. They love to hang out in big groups.

Is this class time well spent for Wilfredo Medina, Roberto Reyes, Joe Derosier, and Eric Torres? Ms. Bilodeau occasionally allows a little couch time so that students can be comfortable.

These four sophomores hang around the electrical shop. Even though they are underclassmen, they can still work like the big guys. Who knows maybe one day they will even have a career in this.





Ahmet Ademi and Jessica Buchanan take a second to figure out the problem in their math class. They are both skilled; but lets see who will finish this tough problem first.

Scene 10: Rings

One of the years most important decisions is the choice of a class ring. There are a bewildering number of choices when designing your high school ring. Whether it's the color of the stone, or the design of the ring, it's all an important part of what represents you. It's your special memory of your high school years.

2006 THE BEST OF THE MIX

There are only so many words to express the good and bad times of high school. Becoming a Junior means being more... more of an upperclassmen, more dances, and even more class spirit than we thought possible. Junior year also requires a lot of responsibility. Being 'older' means other people expect more of you, such as picking college applications to fill out, taking the SAT test, getting a licence, and realizing that high school is half over.

Junior year is one of the last chances to meet anyone you haven't met already. High school only happens one time and is a great chance to explore and experience many diverse personalities. These four years may be the best or the worst times for some of you, but it is what you make it. In the end, the harder you work, the more you get to enjoy your down time. Aside from all the gossip, partying, and drama... there will be no greater satisfaction then receiving your diploma, getting away, and achieving something after these four years of your life.

- Amanda Swider

Juniors know how to have fun! Keeping busy with swimming, attending pool parties, playing sports, and hanging out with all your friends is what summer is all about. Hampton is surley one of the most popular beaches in the summer, and that's why Katie Krow and Marcela Gonzelez found time to visit. Using the sun and sand is the perfect way to end the summer and bond with friends.

Looking back on sophomore year, students wore orange during spirit week. The color day rally is the most eventful and spirited day out of the year; it's what everyone looks forward to!

Best friends Christie Sevigny, Katie Jones, Nicole Klein, and Erin Seifert all share a moment at a classmate's home during the new years season. Watching the ball drop and counting down the seconds is always a fun, classic, and safe way to end a good year and start a great one!

Larry Dziedzic, Nicole Klein, Caitlin Keene, and Sam Lafeur all get funky and creative in a store at Six Flags. Being able to have fun and not care makes the time fly by. " We love to laugh and that makes our class become closer" states Larry.

During a vacation, friends Caitlin Keene and Nicole Klein cuddle up with Daffy Duck at Six Flags.

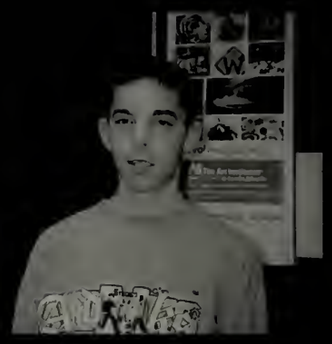
Preparing for the Next Act

High school is almost over, and yet it seems like it just begun. Whether you are ready or not, Juniors must start to look for colleges, fill out applications, and decide where they would like to live the next part of their lives. The rest of your school years might be filled with tests, responsibility, and decisions you may not want to make. With your diploma in hand, you are let out into the world. Here is what some students are planning to do after graduation....



" I have taken the MCAS but have not been able to make time for the SAT's yet. I may stay in Chicopee and study liberal arts until I figure out what I could pursue," says James Jimmo.

Where will you be in five years?

"I would like to graduate from NYU in New York City to study to be a psychologist. I beleive that I was prepared by the MCAS and SAT's. Eventually I'd like to get married, but I and school are my first priorities," states Jordan Marshall.

"I'm planning on moving to New York City and study photography or photo journalism. I don't know what to expect, but i'm really excited to move away and move forward. This school has helped prep me for college. I still need to start to think about SAT's and look at schools myself," says Maxine Guptar.

"I want to live in Hawaii, definitely be going to college, and either be a professional basketball player or a lawyer because I like to argue," explains Eric Torres.

Diana Galecki and Amanda Swider had a chance to get away from their everyday routine. At a resort in Florida, the girls were satisfied with laying on the beach and experiencing Orlando's night life. Diana enjoyed it so much that she has planned to move down to Florida after graduation.

Cotillion veterans Ashley Bernardos and Darryl Gagnon show first-timer Jessica Fernandes just how fun the Cotillion can be." Ever since sophomore year, I have enjoyed attending the winter formal" says Jessica Fernandes.

~THE TIMES THAT WE'VE SHARED~

Student life goes beyond academics to cover the social and the personal. Some of the most important aspects of our whole high school experience are non-academic. All the times that we share and the memories that are made make such a big impact on our lives and everyone around us. School is more than just what goes on in the classroom. What often matters most is a student's high school memories that are made up of friends, parties, boyfriends, girlfriends, and all the things that make a person who they are. For example, the moment CCHS won the sword from Chicopee High was definitely more exciting and memorable than, say, last night's chemistry homework. The soccer and basketball games we all love to attend to show our school spirit are just a few of the occurrences that make high school fun and memorable. The most important event out of all the events would have to be the one week, spirit week, where we compete against the underclassmen for spirit points. Having the rally, wearing all the different outfits, having the pie eating contest, watching the liter chugging contest, and seeing the nasty food eating contest are just a few of the events that happen at that rally. Lots of memories are definitely made during that week; these are the events that make our four years at Chicopee Comp enjoyable and memorable.

- Ashley Bernardos

Even freshmen know how to get down! Brittany Castonguay and Sarah Peloquin show off their moves at Brittanys house one summer night.

Enjoying each others' company, Kate Beauregard, Jen Blair, and Ashley Bernardos sit and laugh together while having a good time at Kyle Harrison's house. There is never a silent or dull moment with these girls.

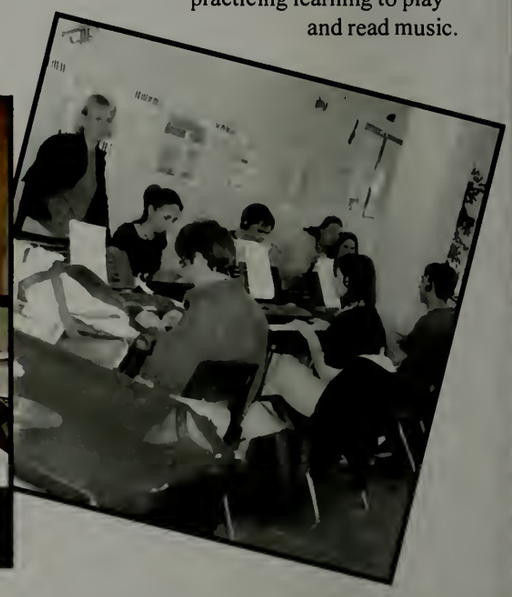
Having a great time at Cotillion, best friends Lindsay Martin and Lindsay Kuc stop and share a quick hug while taking a break from dancing.

A Stage Of Our Own

Dave Serpial and Adam Theroux rock out in their spare time. They both enjoy several different styles of music and show off their skills in each.

Junior Jay Majorowski performs a soulful tune on the piano. He also plays bass in an indie rock band.

Students of all grades can take courses in music. Here the keyboarding class is practicing learning to play and read music.

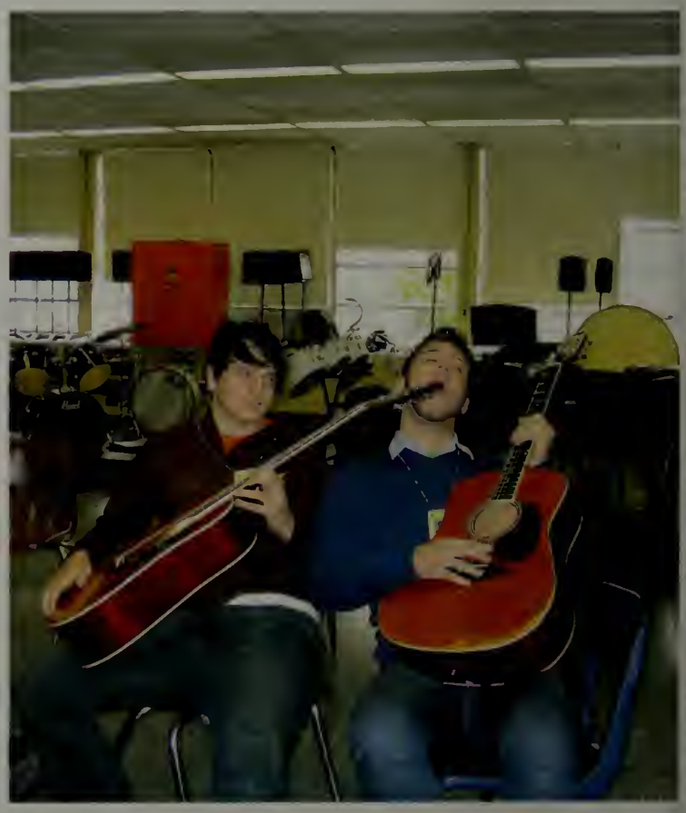


Music on the Side

Music affects the lives of all different people in many ways. Music is played on the intercom before school in the morning. Music is taught almost all periods of the day. There are classes where you can learn to play an instrument such as guitar or keyboard, or you could learn to sing in chorus. Some students are involved in the school marching band which plays at every football game and all of the rallies.

Although many people enjoy music at school, there are even more that enjoy music out of school. Many play music in their free time. A lot of those kids are also members of bands. Some of these bands are Piranha, Antilove, A Caustic Kiss, Dead to this Day, and Dying Fetus. All of these bands, including many other local bands, play shows and record CDs. Their music is heard!

Mr. Clark, a teacher at Comp gives these bands a chance to show their talents at school in the Battle of the Bands. He organizes it himself with the help of a few students. Thanks to him, more people are able to recognize the talent of young musicians at CCHS.



Seniors Alan Dygon and Mike Lafleur take it to the next level when jamming together. "The guitar can be used for many things besides just as an instrument" says Mike.

Sophomore Kathleen Laughlin strums away on the guitar with deep concentration. It is her father's number one axe, straight out of the 80's.

Juniors Steve Wodecki and Brent Favreau practice some new songs for their band A Caustic Kiss. "I really enjoy waxing my guitar" says Brent.

Sophomore Rachel Paquette busts out some killer beats on the drums. She hasn't been playing long, but can definitely feel the rhythm.

Senior Ryan Moge of the band Antilove and senior Eric Paquette of Piranha can usually can be found busting out rockin' riffs onstage. Here they take a moment to reveal their inner emotions by serenading each other deeply.

Antilove chills out backstage before they have to play. They took first place in the 2004 battle of the bands and hope to win more fans over before hitting the stage at a local show.

Seniors Laura Buchanan and Kerrie Bowden are two girls that play music and are truly involved with it. Their band, The Silver Lining, took third place in the CCHS Battle of the Bands in 2004.

Friends Forever

Natalia Gonzalez, Nicole Perry, and Jessica Fernandes always seem to get along no matter what the circumstances may be.

What really is a friend? Most people would say that it's a person that will always be there to help you out; whether it's for a stupid reason or not, they will always come running. They are right beside you to be your shoulder to cry on whenever you just need that one person to cheer you up. A good friend is one that will stand behind you whatever your choices in life may be, good or bad, but will try to stop the bad habits. So when you find a good friend hold onto them because you may never know when you will need them. You may never find another friend like them.

- Kyra O'Donnell & Amber Paradysz

Nicole Wilk, Jordan Marshall, Amanda Barrows, Kerry Hurst, Britt Warren & Desiree Pirog gather together while their table is being set at Chiles.

Michele Rokowski, Diana Galecki, Alicia Pare, & Maureen Bilodeau are at the Boston Science Museum during a sixth grade field trip. These four are still friends to this day.

Best Friends

Katie Krow & Marcella Gonzalez always find time to hang out with each other with their busy schedules.

Amber Paradysz and Lisa Jackson pass the time before they go to the Cotillion sophomore year.

Courtney Willette and Kara Rivard show their true colors outside of school. These two have been friends for a while and plan to stay like that.

Emily Asselin, Brian Millet, and Emily Motyl wait for the sword game to start. There is never a dull moment when Brian is around.

Despite all the drama, Nikita Perkins and Kyra O'Donnell have managed to stay best friends since freshman year.

Ken Tan attacks! Hopefully the fragile display case will escape harm this Halloween.

An enthusiastic crowd gathers in costume after school for the GSA halloween celebration. The GSA holds weekly meetings and works towards increasing tolerance and a welcoming learning environment for all.

In Costume at Comp

There are many occasions when students at Comp alter their appearance. Whether it is getting into band uniform or just changing style for the day, nothing gets as many people to alter their appearance as spirit week.

While spirit week is in the spring, students start earning points for their class early in the year. One of the first opportunities for a class to get ahead on spirit week points is Halloween. Students get into costume and roam the halls.

At lunch, they check in with the scorekeepers so that their points are official. This year the seniors got an early lead on spirit week points coming in first in the Halloween dress up competition. Other spirit week activities include fund-raisers for good causes, a variety of other dress-up days, and the spirit week rally.

Joe Welch, John Medina, Timmy Stewart, and Brandon Mancini present some of the most carefully crafted costumes of the season.

Dan Leatherwood dances with multiple partners at a gathering in room 211 after school. The song playing in the background was "The Monster Mash."

They could almost be a couple. Ricky Jones makes an attractive woman and is joined by a very hairy Mike Conner.

Members of Mr. Schuerfeld's class showed a great deal of Halloween spirit. Yes, that is a human whoopie cushion in pink in the front row.

Love That Lasts a Lifetime

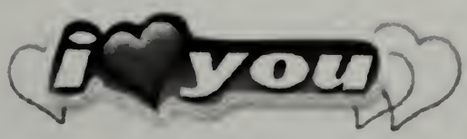
Love Is...

When love catches you, as it does to many people during their high school years, there's not much you can do to stop it. When you find yourself in love, you know that there is not much you won't do for that person. You find yourself spending most of your time with them, you may find yourself using all of those cell phone minutes on them, and you may find yourself making up after a disagreement. No matter what may happen between you, you will always remember the love of that person, and part of you will always belong to them. - Kyra O'Donnell

Ever since the summer of 2004, Lindsay Martin and Dave Fredette have been enjoying every minute that they have spent together.

Katie Gallant and Spenser Ward have been together for about four months. They met at lunch, and had their first real date at the Big E.

Ever since September 18, 2003, Jennifer Day and Brian Hortie have made it work and intend on keeping it that way.



Everette Nedeau and Kerrianne Estabrook have been dating since March 16, 2004 and have enjoyed every minute of it.

Kyra O'Donnell and Jeffrey Fairbanks have been going out since October 2, 2002. They've been through a lot, but it doesn't look like much will ever keep them apart.

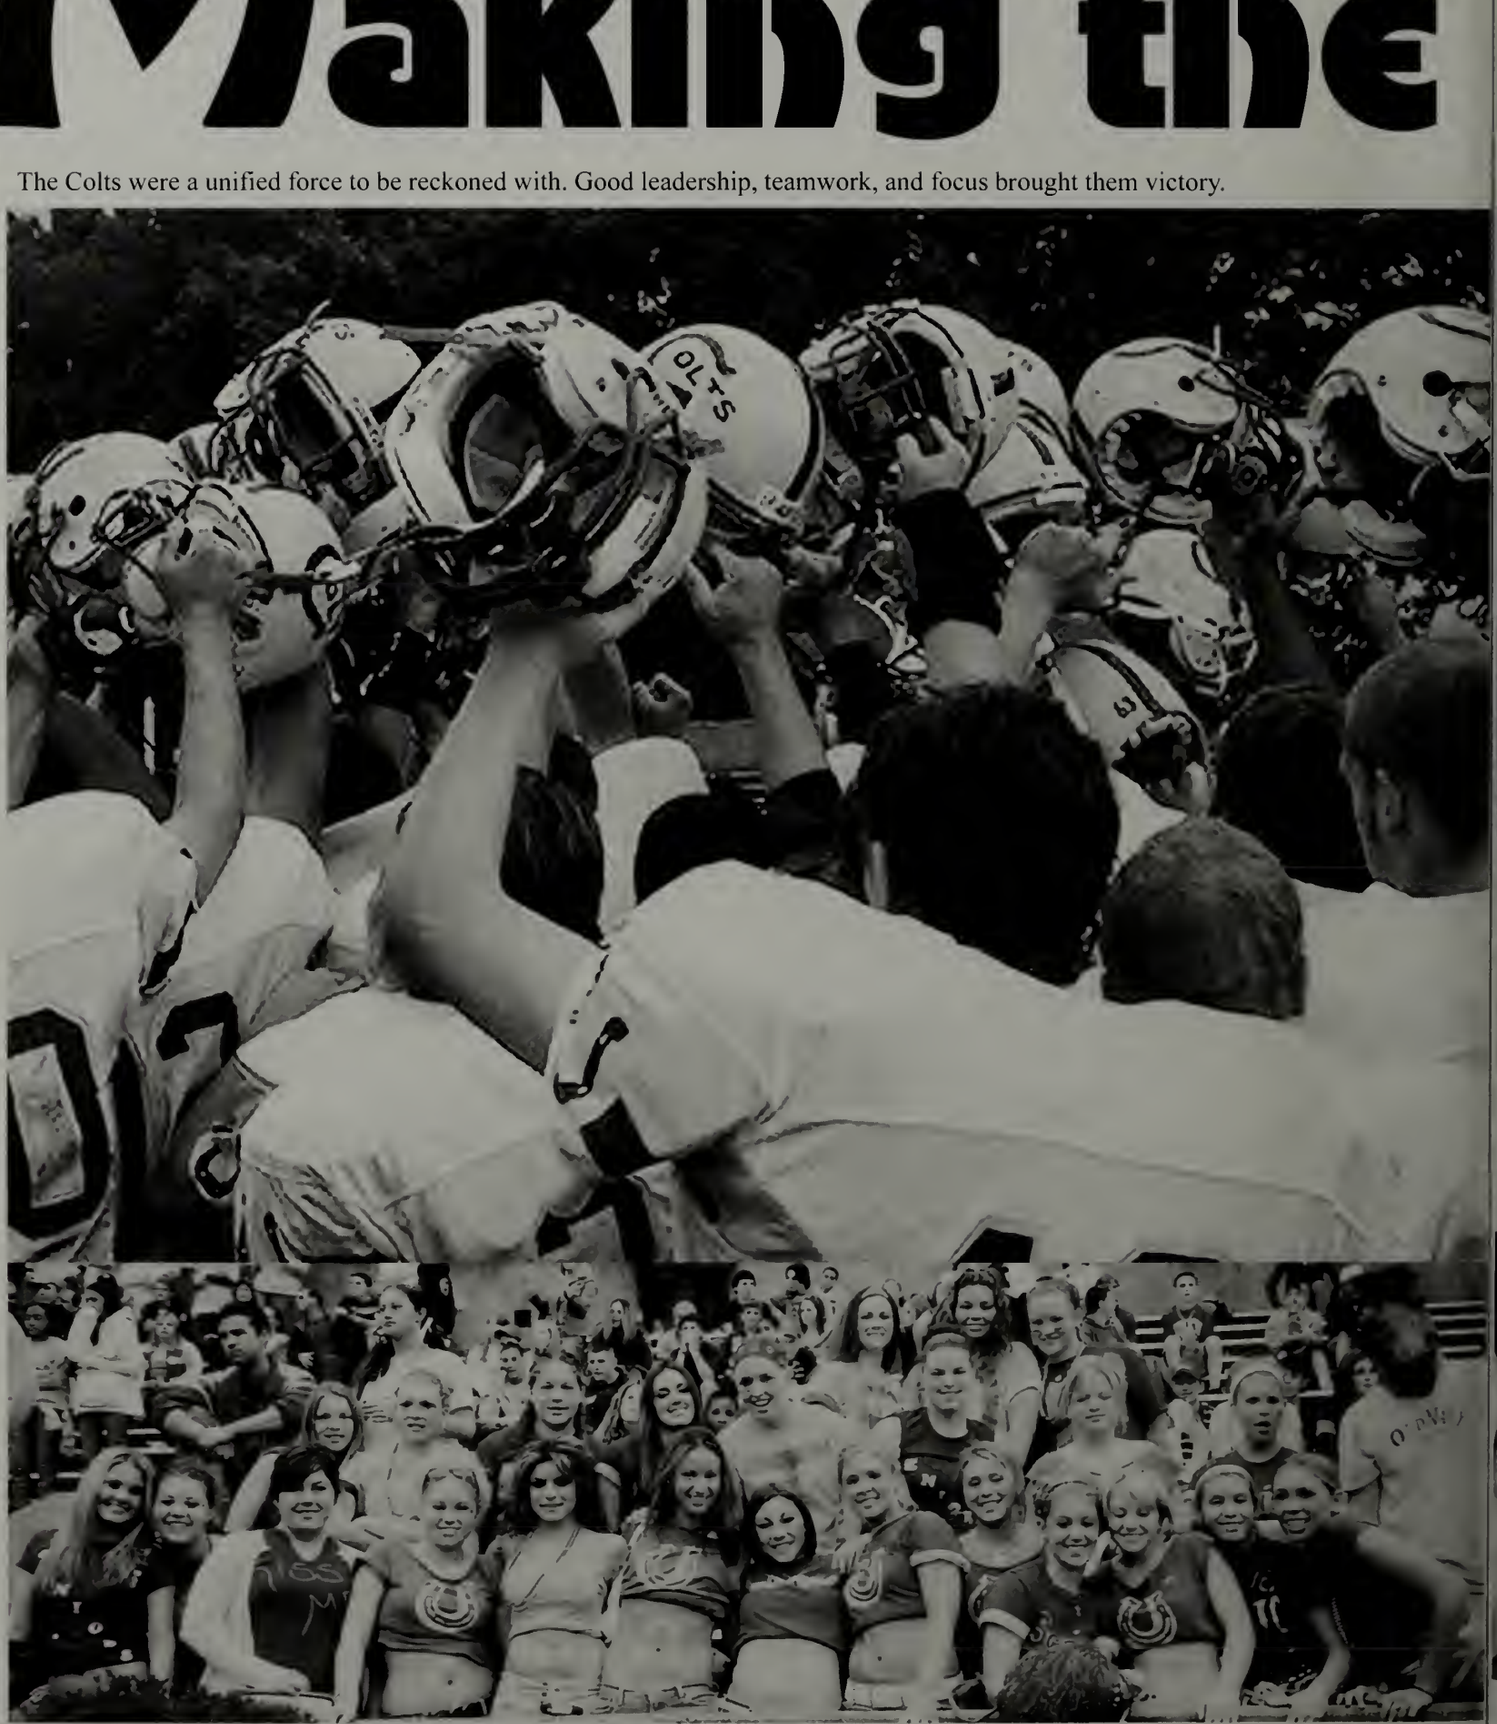
The Colts were a unified force to be reckoned with. Good leadership, teamwork, and focus brought them victory.



The excitement inspired the girls to show their spirit and high energy. Dressed up and ready to win, everyone was brought closer together.

play

Defense was key in this close game. Touchdowns were kept to a minimum.

The sword game is a yearly tradition between the Colts and their crosstown rivals, Chicopee High. It is a time when students gather together to show their school spirit. Our spirit is shown by cheering, decorating t-shirts, and wearing school colors. The team practiced hard this year. They played well in every game into the fourth quarter. Each and every one of them made a strong effort. The only thing that matters is working together and playing the game well. "Records don't mean anything in a game like that" said Coach Schuerfeld. It was a really close game, but in the end the Colts defense took control of the game and sealed the victory. This was the first time in school history that Comp won the sword in back to back years. They kept the sword right where it belongs- at Chicopee Comp.

Brian Goulet, John Hathaway, Brandon Mancini, and James Joly rock on the victory. The win helped our class feel more complete.

After all their hard work, Mike Ciaccio and Eddie Huard take a moment to catch their breath. They definitely made the best out of playing their last sword game.

Lindsay Martin, Meghan Montimagni, Brittany Castonguay, and Sarah Peloquin enjoy their time together celebrating the victory in an unforgettable year.

Jordan Marshall, Chelsea Rice, and Kayla Glasson turn from the action. "The excitement and energy was so intense. I can't wait till senior year," says Jordan Marshall.

Best friends Miranda Beaulieu and Heather Banks smile at their last sword game in high school. "Getting ready at my house was fun, and I'm really glad we got to keep the sword," said Heather Banks.

Working Hard for the Money

In today's society students are expected to go to school full time and hold a job. Students can work anywhere from 5 hours to just under 40 hours a week on top of homework, sports, and any other activities. 128 hours out of 168 hours a week are dedicated to these activities, not including any chores or responsibilities around the house. It's no wonder why we are stressed! It's important for people to understand teens have enough on their shoulders right now. Some can manage, some get stronger, but for others... it may just be too much. Full time or part time-- we have all had those jobs we never want to remember. From CVS to Friendly's, rude customers and stuffy bosses teach us responsibility.... how to work hard and party harder!

PATRIOTISM - THREE YEARS LATER AND STILL GOING STRONG

Emily and Matt Slachetka just after Matt returned from his tour of duy.

Meghan Montemagni

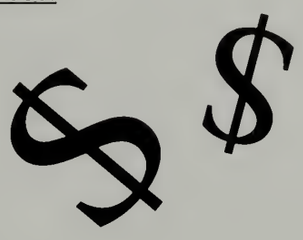
There are many students in this school who have been effected by September 11. Some know those who have passed away or left home for war. Jeff Pelletier, a former Comp student, and current friend to many of us, is currently involved with the fighting in Afghanistan. Meghan Montemagni states, "What else can I say besides I miss him so much and love him with all my heart. He has a month break to come home for the holidays, but no amount of time will satisfy me if he still needs to leave again. We have been together for two and a half years. This will only make us stronger when he is home for good." A second senior, Emily Slachetka misses her brother Matt who is also a former Comp student. He has been away for nearly five months and only got a one-week break before he left for Iraq. His arrival for home is expected to be in February or March, but the date has been pushed back many times already. These two girls are only a small part of our society who has been effected by recent events.

Inevitably all High School experiences become nothing, but a distant memory. A story to tell your children, neices, and nephews. "High School was fun!" One day you might use those four words to sum up four years of your life. One word per year. Scary isn't it? A lifetime's worth of experiences muddled together into one minescule blob. A vacant hallway in your mind that was once jampacked with life.

Hey Big Spender!

The average of one week expenses.

Food: $15.00
Gas: $28.00
Car Insurance: $150.00
Cell Phone: $35.00
Clothes: $40.00
Miscellaneous: $20.00



Q: I'm trying to save money, but everytime I get my checks I just spend them on things I think I need at the time. What can I do to save and spend?
A: Check with your employer and see if they have direct deposit. If you are eighteen you can open your own savings account, and your employer will put your checks directly into your account. If you are under eighteen and/or your work does not have direct deposit then a parent or gaurdian can put their name on the account with yours so you may make deposits and withdrawls.

What Do You Like to Splurge On?

Matt Saxe explains that "Me and the guys like to get together and play poker". Watch out Vegas! Some other things Matt's BigY checks go to are video games, sporting events, and special presents for his girlfriend. A budget well spent for the average 18 year old.

Senior ballot (best dressed) winner Lindsay Martin says "clothes." She works at Forever XXI and exclaims that it is her favorite store besides BEBE. "I love going to NYC and Boston to get away from the ordinary. I can really express myself through clothes," she said.

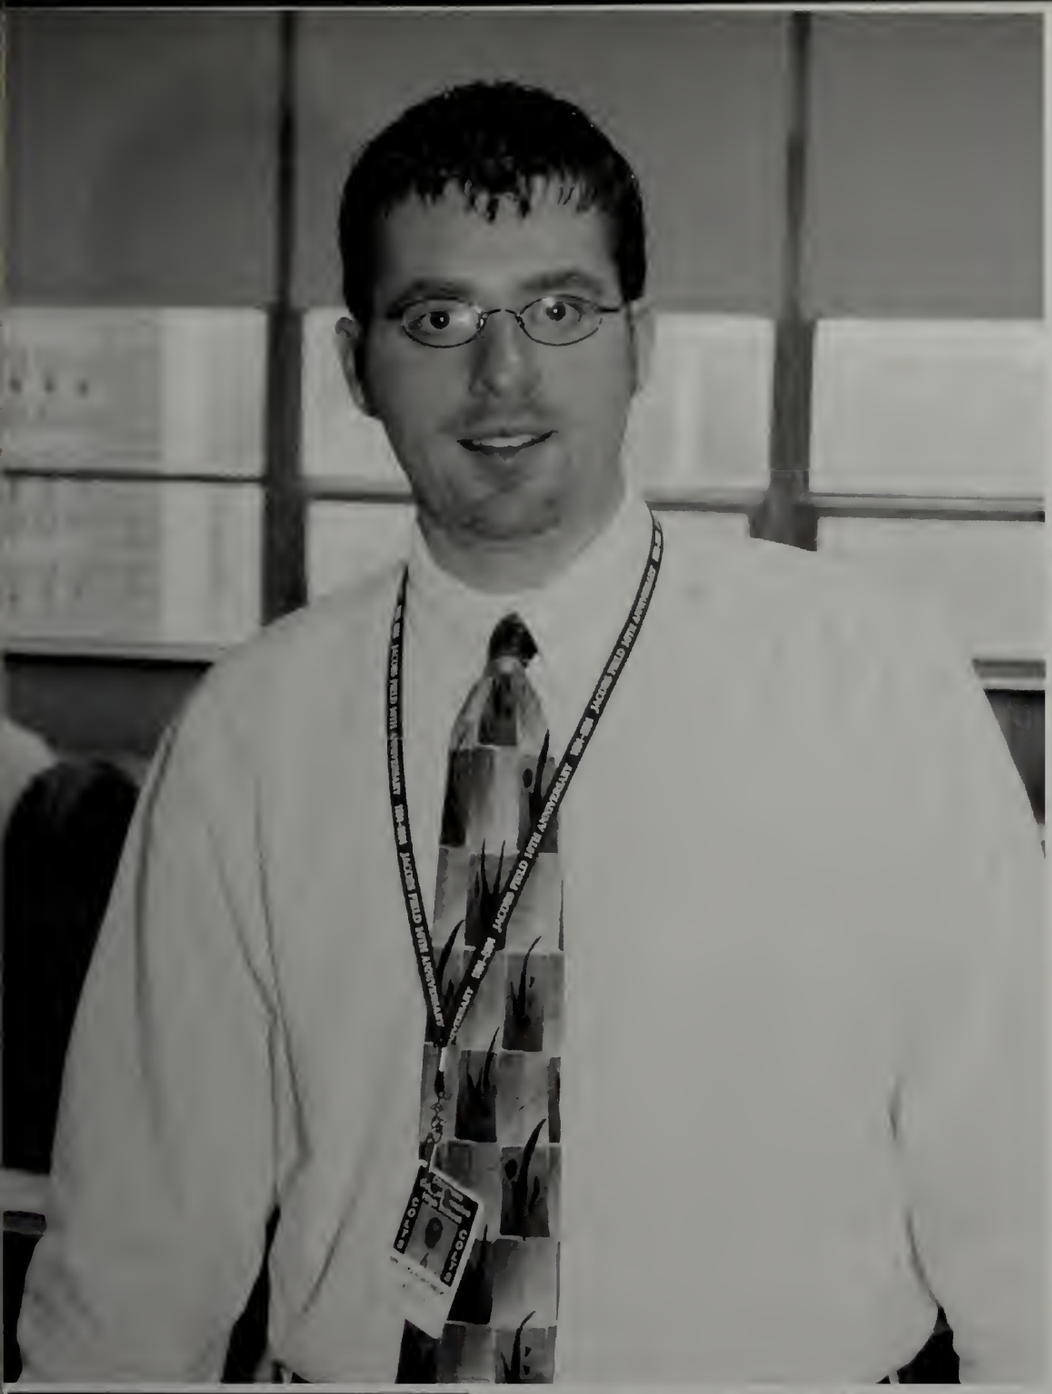
Dedication

STEFAN CZAPOROWSKI

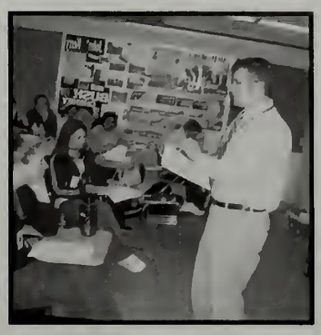
SUPERSTAR

Being passionate is something that comes straight from the heart. Mr. Czaporowski is more than passionate about his job. He is a well-liked, hard working Social Studies teacher that was recently promoted to department supervisor. "He's jazzed and has energy coming out of his pores," says Ms. Franklin. His hard work also shows in the extra things he does. He has served as class advisor for the classes of 2001 and 2005. Not only do we see him as a teacher but someone who is down to earth, friendly, and who allows students to feel comfortable enough to give him the nickname "Czap". He shares the spotlight with his co-worker and friend, Mr. Moritko with whom he advises Student Council as well as the senior class. With Student Council he helps organize events such as Spirit Week, community service, fund raisers, rallies, and dances. He has also been involved in advising the As School Match Wits and Academic Decathlon teams. Another glowing achievement of his is the distinguished speakers program which brought Governor Mitt Romney and many others to Comp. When it comes down to it, it is a honor to have him be a part of Chicopee Comp. For all his dedication, we gladly give this dedication to him.

What a team! Without these two, the class of 2005 wouldn't be complete. We thank them for their hard work and dedication.



Mr. Czaporowski shines in front of a class. His enthusiasm for the subject is contagious.



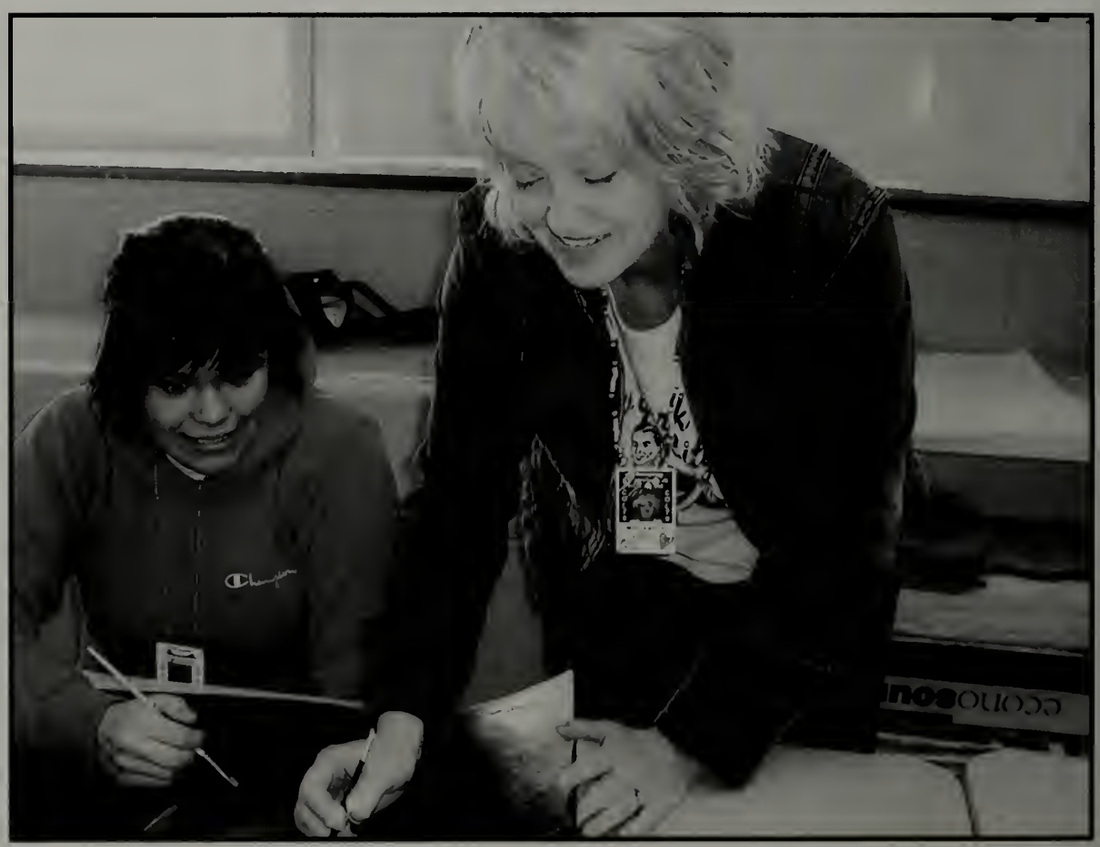
"If your actions inspire others to dream more, learn more, do more, and become more, you are a leader."
- John Quincy Adams

Casual as can be, Czap and Ms. Perreault take a break from teaching and go on a field trip to Washington D.C. for U.S. History class.

Young "Czap" shows off his diploma and holds back the excitement after his high school graduation. He's preparing to move on and start a name for himself. Having graduated from Comp gave him a better idea of how the school worked for when he made his debut as a teacher here.

INTRODUCING THE PRODUCERS

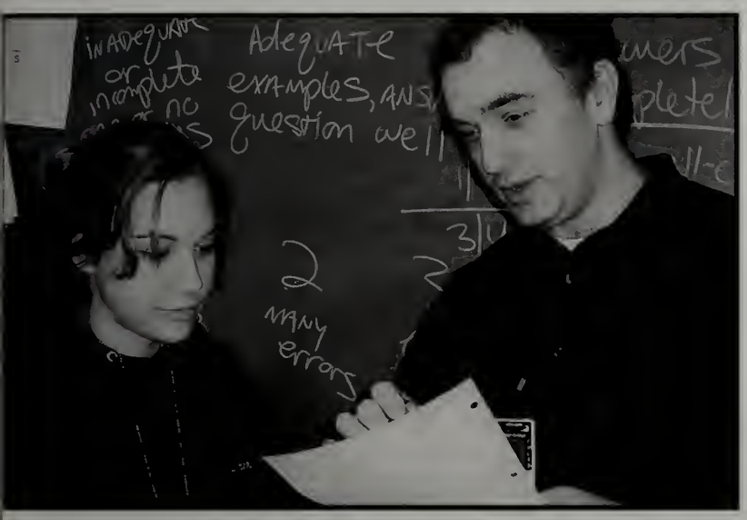
An inspiration to many students, Mrs. Fahey continues to teach the importance of art. Mrs. Fahey guides a senior, Tracy Cheatle, through the art principles of using different shades. Tracy has learned a great deal; just look at her excitement!

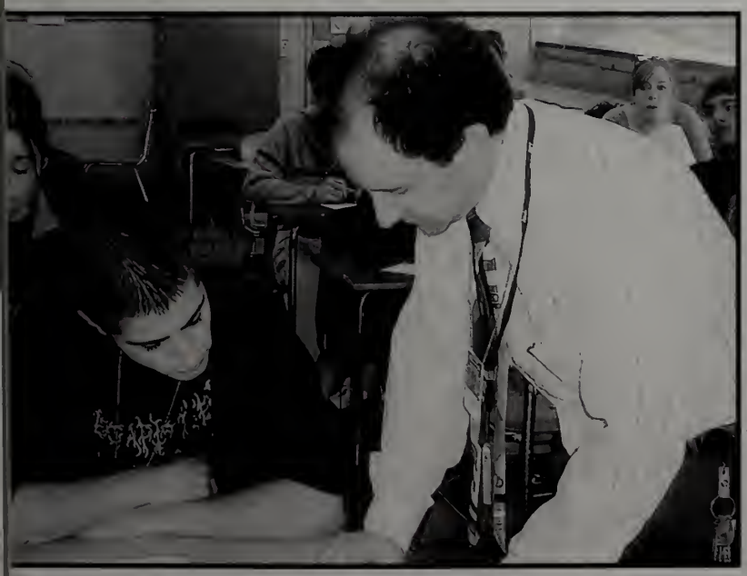


Always offering to help, Mr. Moritko helps senior Tina Densmore with her art project. Tina is very artistic, and the penguin shows off her creativity in art.

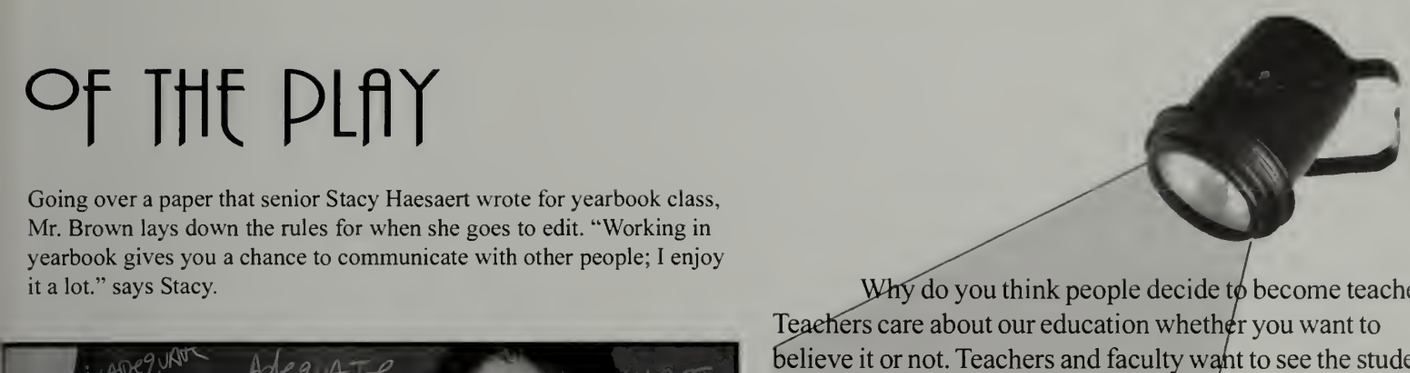
OF THE PLAY

Going over a paper that senior Stacy Haesaert wrote for yearbook class, Mr. Brown lays down the rules for when she goes to edit. "Working in yearbook gives you a chance to communicate with other people; I enjoy it a lot." says Stacy.





Helping a student out in need, math teacher Mr. Mashia, shows off his mathematical skills by teaching senior Jeff Jordan a thing or two about probability.



Why do you think people decide to become teachers? Teachers care about our education whether you want to believe it or not. Teachers and faculty want to see the students succeed in school and learn the importance of education. We have our favorites and our not so favorite teachers. "My favorite teacher is Mrs. Fahey because she's nice and always has a smile on her face," says senior Heather Banks.

Some teachers are very strict only because they want us to learn and understand the material that they are trying to teach us. The faculty aren't only here to teach, however. They give us advice and help us with problems that we have.

A lot of students complain about homework. Why do you think teachers assign homework? They want us to understand the material that they are teaching to us. They are trying to help us-- so why complain?

Throughout the years, teachers helped students in every way that they can, including MCAS and SATs. Helping students achieve their goals and do well in college is what teachers hope for. "Mrs. Chelte is my most inspiring teacher because her enthusiasm and loyalty as a teacher make it easier for me to do my job as a student," says senior Stacy Haesaert. The faculty and staff are there to help and guide us through our high school years. They inspire and give the students confidence by showing us that we will make it in the future.

Helping and pushing students to try their hardest is what Mrs. Lakota does best. Senior Zuleika Rivera concentrates on Mrs. Lakota's comment on Grendel, one of the books many seniors had to read this year.

In this freshman class Jessica Kelly learns the intricacies of Physical Science. Mr. Taupier enjoys teaching freshman as well as other classes because it's a new experience every time.

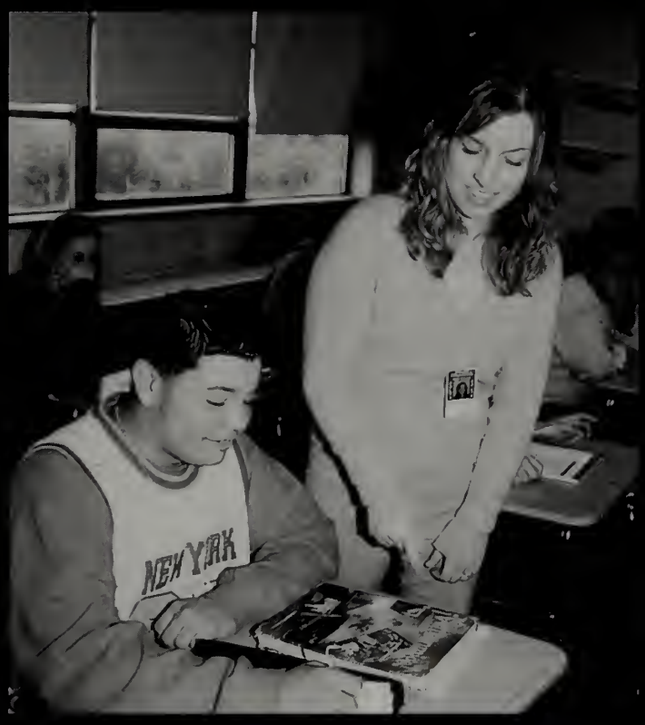
Paperwork & Partnership

One way teachers help students is to go over their work. This involves paper- in bulk. Did you know the copy room at CCHS produces over a million copied handouts and papers for students a year!? All of this paper takes many forms including questionnaires, quizzes, lecture notes, histories, stories, tests, booklets, surveys, scripts, reports, lists, syllabi, and another favorite—rubrics! It's amazing.



Here Ms. Lynch checks a foreign language handout for a student. He hopes she doesn't notice that his pen is really a lollipop stick.

Food Production Management and Services teacher Mr. Krawczyk, and Joe Welch go over the menu. They both know how to enjoy their work.

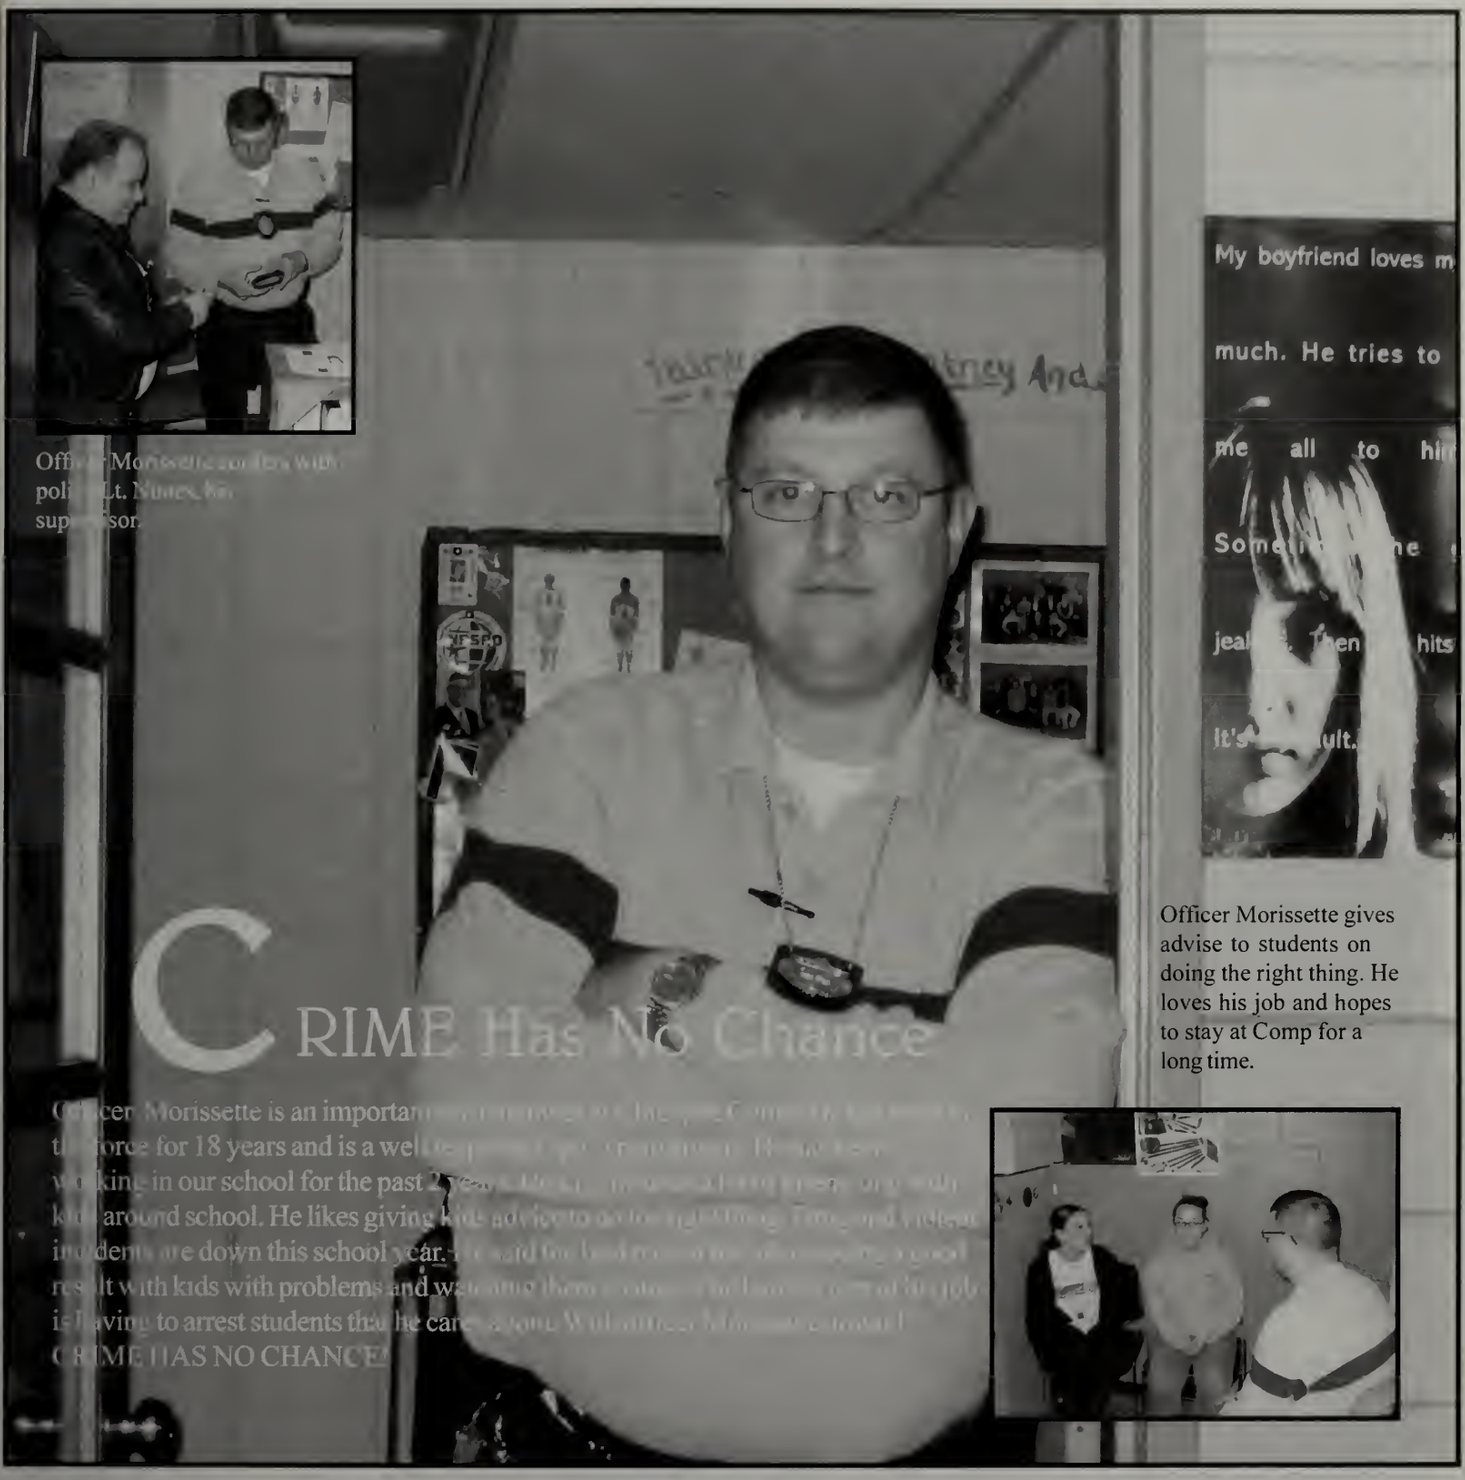
Donna Bishop and Dorothy Hamel work behind the scenes at the sophomore ice cream and class ring party. They add a particularly cheerful presence to the cafeteria.

Did you know that many of the cafeteria workers are known to the students by their first names preceded by "Miss?" Here we have Miss Donna, Miss Debbie, and the food service manager, Miss Nancy. Clearly from the expressions on their faces, employee morale has been high on the agenda!



Officer Morissette confers with [illegible] supervisor.

Officer Morissette gives advise to students on doing the right thing. He loves his job and hopes to stay at Comp for a long time.

CRIME Has No Chance

Officer Morissette is an important [illegible] the force for 18 years and is a well [illegible] working in our school for the past 2 [illegible] kids around school. He likes giving kids advice to [illegible] incidents are down this school year. [illegible] result with kids with problems and watching them [illegible] is having to arrest students that he cares about. With officers like [illegible] CRIME HAS NO CHANCE!

Caught by surprise by a reckless yearbook photographer, these two cafeteria workers were cleaning up after the Sophomore ice cream party. Miss Sandy, who holds the soapy pan, and Miss Mary are two hardworking ladies. The contributions of all staff at CCHS are much appreciated. Thank You.

"What, you mean sometimes they're a little more like real people?"

Ms. Picard and Ms. Bilodeau get started on dessert. Wednesday lunch at Compaccinos is a much appreciated opportunity to relax for faculty here at CCHS.

John Grob always looks relaxed until a yearbook photographer shows up. He puts on a worried face as part of the act.

Mr. Mashia is one of those teachers that is a serious teacher with a theatrical side. His ability to relentlessly pursue student learning is matched by his piano playing and singing. He easily bursts into song given the opportunity.

Mr. Clarke teaches by having the students "do" physics. When no one is looking, he hops in the electric project vehicle and makes "brooom brooom" noises. Just kidding! He knows this is a quiet electric car!

Less Guarded Moments

Teachers have a tough job. They have to be prepared to teach many classes a day and try to motivate students. Sometimes teachers have to be serious to get the job done. Other times they can let their personality come through more.

For example, on Wednesday, at Compaccinos restaurant in our Career Tech. wing, teachers who want something a little different come for a meal. The students who make up the staff at Compaccinos get to see them when they are a little more relaxed. Teachers socialize, tell jokes, and laugh.

Also, with the right group of students, teachers can joke around a little and still get the students to do their work. Every teacher, no matter how serious will eventually let that other, perhaps unexpected side of their personality peek out.

In career tech things are sometimes a little more relaxed. It is as much like a job as school. John Kozikowski can laugh with Mr. Gassnola.

Not everybody knows Mr. Krimsky from Special Ed. If you get to know him, you will discover his sense of humor.

Ms. Potter gets a gift from a co-worker in Special Ed. Although somewhat new to the building, Ms. Potter's days are kept busy counseling students and solving problems.

At Compaccinos, Mr. Clarke, Mr. Gassnola, and Mr. Ziemba are sipping coffee after a satisfying meal. Don't be late for class!

THE ROLES OF CAREER TECH

Mr. Aickelin is working hard teaching his sophmores in Electrical. He has a great sense of humor and motivates his students to work hard.

The Cisco class is fooling around. They make it look like an easy class, but it isn't.

Chad Hart has decided to take an easy day. He looks happy to see us.

The 400 & 500's

Throughout Career Tech there are many roles that students fill. We find electrical workers, cooks, drafting personnel, welders, carpenters, auto technicians, machine shop workers, cisco networkers, and horticulturists.

If you have any problems with your wiring ask the experts in Electrical. Problems with your computers? Call Cisco. Hungry? Go to Compaccinos. If you are designing your future home, go to Drafting. When building, go ask the Carpenters, and when you want some flowers for valentines day visit Horticulture. If you want a new brake job call AutoTech, If you need a new bumper welded on to your car go to Welding, and if you need machine parts go to Machine shop. Career Tech. prepares students for rewarding careers in a variety of fields.

~Lisa Jackson

Another busy person in Automotive. No job is too tough for him.

The seniors are enjoying a nice relaxing day. They seem a little too comfortable.

The juniors get in a big group to be loud and rowdy. It looks like they are having a nice and easy day.

Career Tech

Electrical

Through the doors of room 217 lies Electrical, one of the hardest classes in Career Tech. The electricians in this shop learn many valuable skills that they need for the future. Theory is one of the most dreaded topics, but it is the most important thing that they need to learn. Without theory, they would not know how to calculate certain jobs or know about the dangers of making a mistake. Safety is an often reviewed topic in class.

In this shop there is also a lot of hands on work that can be very difficult, but the students in there are very patient and work hard at what they want to get done. The three electrical teachers have taught them many things they need to know, and all the students appreciate it very much. The students in this shop take the risk of getting shocked every day, but they don't let that stop them.

~Lisa Jackson

The Sophomores are having a hard working day. They are making a good effort for their grade.

These students are preparing to make some good food before having to serve the teachers and students at Compaccinos. Good people skills are as important as culinary ones.

The trays go into the ovens on Thursday when Compaccinos is open for students.

Those in cooking always have to find some interesting recipes to make customers at Compaccinos happy. Salmon, chicken tetrazzini, lasagna, and roast beef were just a few of the items on the menu this fall.

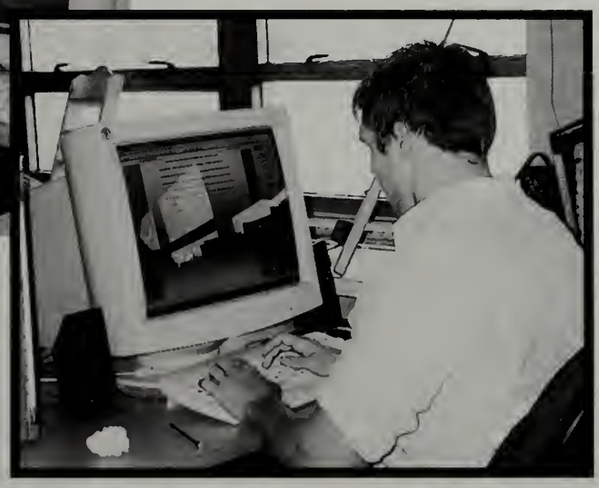
Cooking

The food production class is a big part of the school. Students learn how to cook, measure the ingredients, and, most importantly, how to work together. Mr. Cerpovicz and Mr. Krawczyk teach that working together plays a BIG part when people are running a restaurant. Compaccinos is a student-run restaurant that is open Wednesdays for teachers and Thursdays for students and teachers. The students learn how to prepare the meal, set the tables, and serve the food to the customers. This can prepare them if they choose to open their own restaurant or decide to work in the food service industry.

- Amber Paradysz

Senior, Corey Clegg just completed one of the many projects that must be completed throughout the school year. He works efficiently to finish on time.

Senior Kyle Robert shows us a project that he was been working on. He adds the finishing touches to his design.



Food for Thought

Drafting

Drafting is one of the classes offered in the Career Tech department. Freshman year they learn how to use the program CAD which stands for computer aided design. CAD is the program used to help the students put together the designs being worked on in that class. Sophomore year they concentrate more on the building of things; it is a lot more hands on than the year before. Junior and Senior year the students work on their major projects to prepare themselves to head out into the world. Drafting teaches them the techniques needed to go out into the world and put their skills to good use.

Senior Eddie Huard designs a project for his drafting class. Maybe someday he can design his own house or something.

Zuleika Rivera Works hard in Carpentry. She has been in carpentry for a few years now and has enjoyed each year there.

Jason Keeley and Ron Dionne hang around carpentry trying to look like they are doing work. These two like carpentry and enjoy the work and the people.

Carpentry

The carpentry class has accomplished many projects throughout the year, but the biggest project is done by the juniors and seniors. This year the juniors and seniors of the carpentry class are working on the roof at the Chicopee Golf Course with the help of their teacher Mr. Archambault. The sophomore and freshmen classes work on their own projects in the shop. Sophomore Jessica Buchanan says "Carpentry is a great experience for me; it gives me the opportunity to build neat projects and work with power tools." The course is a good opportunity to learn new things about carpentry and to maybe even start a career. The class has a lot to accomplish this year and will do it with hard work , dedication, and help from their teacher.

Jessica Buchanan shows off her skill on the band saw while cutting out the pieces for the shelf she is making. She likes carpentry, and it shows in her work.

Andrew Chagnon shows his strenth in welding. He works hard and has fun at the same time in class.

Katelynn Theriault, Amanda Dupuis, and Dave Marra take a break from their welding duty to hang out. Amanda Dupuis says "It is a great accomplishment knowing I am the first female to graduate from the welding shop, and I owe it all to my teacher Mr. Gassnola and a great class."

Putting it All Together

Welding

Welding is a fun class that gives you unique skills and valuable knowledge. This year the students of the welding class are hoping to finish their "big" project; it is a giant globe they are building. They hope it will be done by the end of this year. The students in this class are very dedicated and hard working. Junior Katelyn Theriault says "welding has presented me with challenges not only mentally but physically, and that is why I like it so much." The welding class is a good class to take; it teaches you math skills and new and interesting things about metal. Welding takes a lot of skill too; it involves a lot of dangerous equipment, time, and effort. Senior Dave Marra says "Welding is fun-- I would like to make it my life career." The students in the class are accomplishing much with the help and guidance of their teacher Mr. Gassnola.

-Joann Buchanan-

Amanda Mcintosh shows off her ability to use the plasma cutter while cutting out pieces for the flower candle holder she is making. She is one of only three girls in her welding class, but that does not stop her from doing a great job on her work.

Cisco Networking

Cisco networking is one of the most challenging classes at Comp. Students learn how to build and repair computers. They work with routers, switches, hubs, and cables. These students learn tasks such as installing Windows 98 or XP, configuring system software, and ensuring internet security. They also learn computer upgrading and repair.

This year the students have learned how to configure routers and create their own fiber-optic cable projects. The students have what is called a lan project (local area network) where two computers share files. They can connect any computer to the internet, and they learn by helping with aspects of the network throughout the building. "Cisco networking has been a genuinely amazing experience for me. Working with Mr. Ziemba and other students on class projects and learning the dynamics of computer networking has been one of the highlights of my short high school career," says Ryan Moge.

Auto Tech

This year there are a lot more customers for Auto Tech. which means a lot more work. Everyone is extremley satisfied with the work that auto-tech performs.These young students can do anything except body work.

These tasks range from fixing routine breaks, to doing engine repair, fixing transmission, and replacing struts. "Many customers trust us with their cars," comments Ana Pacheco. Customers pay a five dollar service charge and the cost of any additional parts needed. Instead of bringing your authomobile for repair at a shop, you can bring it to the Auto Tech department and save by not having to pay for labor fees. "We learn many things that will aid in our future automotive skills," says Matthew Dougherty.

Landscaping

The Career Tech section of our school offers a course on Landscaping. The students that take this course go around to many different places in the city like the local school and city hall to improve the landscaping around those places. The students also work in a greenhouse located in the back of the school where they raise and bed plants. They raise the plants for an annual plant sale the course has every year. Planting, pruning, removing unwanted trees and shrubs, and the finer points of feeding plants are all skills that are learned.

Machine Tech

The machine technology course in career tech. trains students to become apprentices in the machine tech work force. The students are trained with many conventional and computer controlled machines. When asked what the machines are used for, Erica Rosado said "the machines are used to make parts for other machines." As freshmen and sophomores, the students learn how to control and operate the conventional machines. The conventional machines are the machines that you work with your hands. It takes about a year and a half of working the conventional machines before you can begin working with the computer controlled machines. As juniors and seniors, students are allowed to use the computer controlled machines that need much more skill to run.

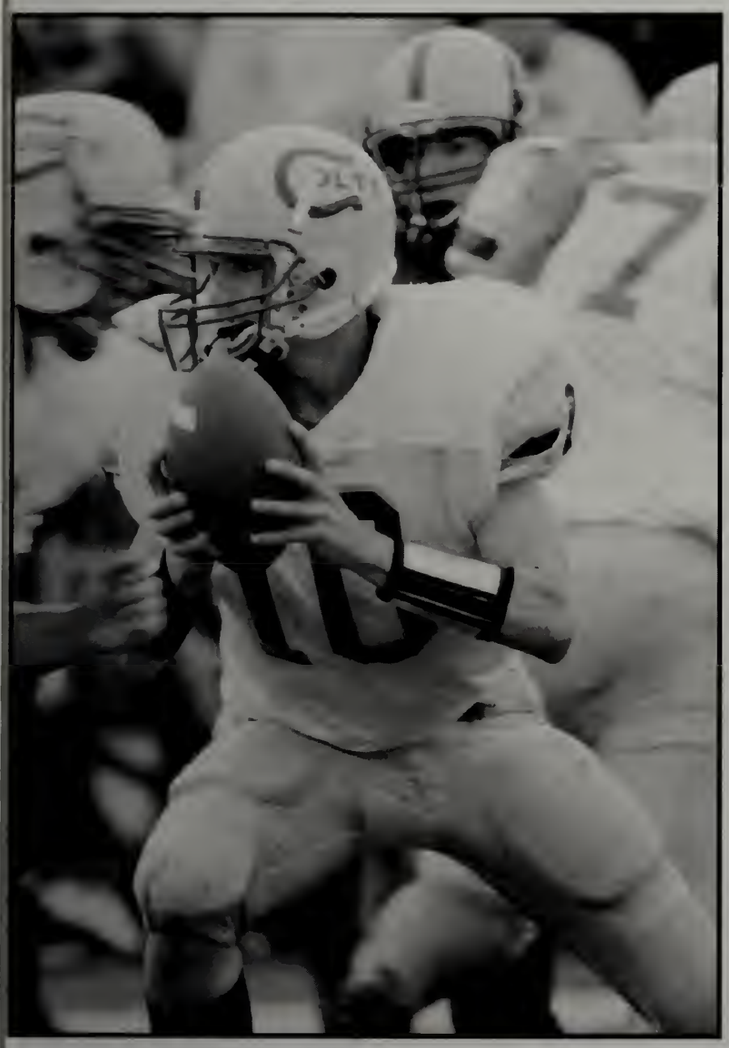
BEING PROUD OF THE BLUE AND GOLD

Jon Provost, the quarterback for our football team, looks for an opening to make a pass for the chance to get the Colts on top with a touchdown.



Student athletes at Chicopee Comprehensive High School are a part of something special. Dressed in uniforms of blue and gold, they reflect the attitudes of leadership, teamwork, and commitment. These athletes give long hours of sweat and devotion to not only the sports they play, but to the school they represent. Some have played for all four years of their high school careers and some participate in a sport during each of the three seasons. Regardless of what sport they play or how long they have been playing, they all play for the same purpose-- to bring pride to Chicopee Comp.

At Chicopee Comp, coaches dedicate their time and ensure that their athletes leave with memories that will last a lifetime. Teams leave here with lessons that they have learned from their experiences, their coaches, and from each other. Many coaches here are also members of the faculty which brings a stronger tie to Comp. The name on the front of the jersey becomes more important than the one on the back.

With the victories and the defeats, the dedication and commitment always remain strongest in the hearts of the student athletes. A supportive atmosphere can be found at all sporting events. When each athlete steps out onto the field, court, or onto the gymnasium floor, they are greeted with positive support. Students, faculty, family, and friends dedicate their time to the sports teams of Comp. Standing out in the cold, the pouring rain, or packing into the crowded bleachers, fans support Comp through the good and the bad. There is no greater way to be a representative of the wonderful school pride and spirit we have here at Comp than by being a part of the many sports Comp offers. These sports instill the memories that students take with them long after high school.

A Perfect Performance

Expectations Exceeded

After three long years of constant coaching, strenuous practices, and team meetings, the Comp girls volleyball team achieved one of its goals - a perfect season. The Colts went undefeated in the regular season, showing all of Western Mass that it was not an impossible dream to achieve.

The Colts have improved greatly over the last three years. From a 2-18 season to a 19-0 season, the team has grown immensely. This year, the team consisted of six seniors, Tina "Bamm" Densmore, Ashley Chapdelaine, Shannon "Digz" Abad, Laura Buchanan, Amanda Gauthier, and Stacy Haesaert, all of whom have been there from the beginning and have seen this program grow. "It's good to know that we started it all and ended our time with this team on such a positive note," says Shannon Abad.

Although these power players won't be returning next season, the team will not be starting over again from scratch. The team has a good base of girls, including three juniors, Erin "Roof" Seifert, Melissa Clark, and Christie Sevigny; one sophomore, Jenn Buchanan; and three freshmen, Amanda "Frogger" Major, Maryanne Grey, and Steffanie Meyer. All of these underclassmen are excited to continue on with the team throughout their entire high school career.

This team has been through a lot over the past three years, but we never gave up and always prevailed. The Comp girls volleyball team has gained the respect they deserve throughout all of Western Mass. The coaches, Jim Angelos and Frank Schillinger, believed in the girls, and the fans supported them. Behind the girls stood their parents, friends, and faculty at CCHS.

Although the banner isn't up on the wall of their gym yet, the 2004 League Champion Comp girls' volleyball team will forever remain a part of history at Chicopee Comprehensive High School. As Tina Densmore states, "We've accomplished what some teams can only dream of."

ARE YOU READY FOR SOME FOOTBALL?

Rain or shine the Comp football team has always given it their all when they are on the field. Even though they had a tough season, they always kept their heads up high and tried harder on the next game. The game that made everyone happy was the sword game. Some people doubted the team and thought that they were going to lose the sword this year. Some people obviously underestimated the strength of this team. The football team proved everyone wrong by beating those Pacers and keeping the sword which is rightfully ours. The fans were very happy to keep the sword and gave the team a lot of support throughout the game. The football team did a lot better than people expected them to. As Senior Captain William Kenny said, "We did a lot better than what the papers said about us." Fans remember the games, and think all the team has to do is go out there and hit people. Well, there is a lot more to it. Every single day they are outside practicing in any weather and sometimes with pulled muscles and even injuries, but it has never stopped them. From running up the Comp hill to going through the gauntlet, they have always stuck by it and pushed even harder because they wanted to be the best. The team played together as one this season. All that hard work paid off in the end. As Bobby Daudelin said, "Team is not measured by their record but by their heart.

GYMNASTICS

Spending time flipping, jumping, and twirling can be difficult yet rewarding. "Practicing every day is time consuming, but when entering a competition doing well and achieving everything is all worthwhile in the end," says Lindsay Martin, senior captain of the gymnastics team. Gymnastics events include beam, a routine that is performed on a long thin board. Bars, which has different levels of poles for moves, requires upper body strength to flip and turn. Floor, a dance routine that involves acrobatics and eye catching moves, enables the gymnast to express themselves. Being a gymnast requires time management, physical determination, patience, concentration, and hard extensive training. Everyone works extremely hard in their events and always tries their best. The amount of mental focus and concentration rivals the physical demands. "I'm really happy with our results this season," says Megan Montemagni. Gymnastics is a sport that requires all the extra physical training that is possible to work into one's schedule. Aside from regular practice two hours a day five days a week, two of the team members train at alternate gyms. When asked how much time is spent between training and meets per week, Lindsay Martin heavily sighed and replied with a smile "about fifteen hours a week plus some additional working out".

Having many years of experience, Lindsay Martin knows how to make up interesting routines on the beam. In order to be able to jump, flip, twirl and twist, practice always makes perfect.

A flawless Routine

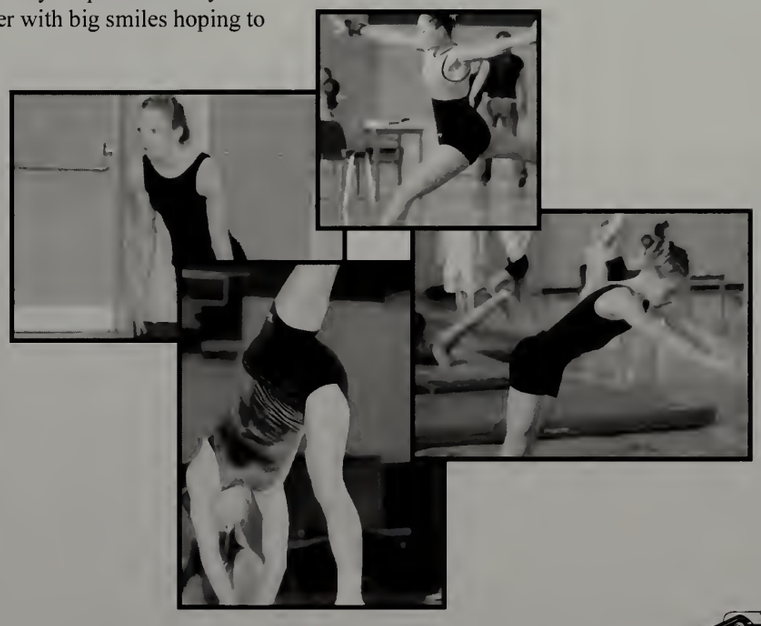
Having strength is an important factor to have in the competitive sport of gymnastics. Meghan Montemagni uses her arm strength to balance perfectly on bars.

Balance and hand-eye coordination can be difficult when trying to do a new routine on a long thin board known as the beam. Carly Siano practices this to make it perfect for her upcoming meet

During football and basketball season, Chicopee High is our biggest rival, but when it comes to gymnastics, athletes from both schools band together to work hard for their mixed team. Showing their friendship and pride are captains Jacklyn Carbeneau from Chicopee High, Meghan Montemagni, and Lindsay Martin from Comp.

> ""I'm really happy with our results this season." - Meghan Montemagni

"When we're all in the gym, everyone is spread out doing their own specialty, but when it comes down to it all, we walk in and out as a team knowing we have done our best" says captain Lindsay Martin. Before the gymnastics teams first meet, they gather together with big smiles hoping to have good luck with their upcoming season.



Kerrie Rice from Chicopee High was a member of our combined team. Kerrie, a freshman, did well her first year; beam was her event.

A STAR PERFORMANCE.....

Last year, the Chicopee Comprehensive High School cheerleading team had a record of second at States, beat Chicopee High, and placed first at Pioneer Valley League and Western MA regionals. Although their overall record this year is different; they have all worked really hard to become a cohesive team, and that is what is most important to them.

Captain Laura Cyran said her job as a leader was definitly a challenge but doing things such as keeping the team organized, sane, and calm was definitly worth it. "It was such an honor to be captain for this team," she said, adding that "this season so far has had a lot of new people, but the freshmen have been exceeding expectations and seem like they know what their doing."

Being a cheerleader is a lot of hard work. Having long practices every other day and not really being able to do much else, such as going out with friends, was definitly rough. Working together as a team is even harder. Making sure that no one gets hurt and that everyone is safe is such a hard thing to do. Especially challenging is ensuring safety at all times while throwing, catching, and tumbling.

The cheerleaders add spirit and fun to the football and basketball games. Chicopee Comprehensive students appreciate them for that.

Practice makes perfect. Practicing is definitely a big factor in cheerleading. Having to learn and to be able to teach certain moves and throws is difficult. The girls try to practice at least three to four times a week.

Jen Tapp and Joselyn Comeau got closer this year during the season. "The team this year is different--we're all getting along and are really close knit which we really weren't last year," says Jen.

The girls on the Chicopee Comp Cheerleading team have a lot of spirit and fun while cheerleading. Before the games they like to practice a little just to warm up and minimize the chance of making a mistake during their performance. This usually works because there are barely any mistakes during their routines.

Coach Melissa Fitzgerald and Assistant Coach Jen Macky take a moment to take a quick picture together. These coaches definitely put in a lot of their time and effort to make the Chicopee Comprehensive High School cheerleading team have one of the best seasons ever. They pushed them hard and made them follow certain rules which made the team not only a good team but what she says is a close team.

BOY'S

YEAR OF A PLAY.....

Last year wasn't a very good year for the Chicopee Comp boys soccer team, "but this year was a big improvement," said Brandon Mancini. The boys were very competitive this year in every game. Though sometimes they lost, their spirits were still up, and they never gave up. " The season was good because we built relationships and made more friends," said Brandon Mancini. Captain Derek Krow worked his hardest this year, helped keep practices running smoothly, and encouraged the new players to reach their fullest potential. He made his last year a great one for himself and the team.

Although they had a great season, Derek Krow wanted more. He said "we should have won more games than we did." One game that he said sticks in his mind was the night of Senior Night against Division I Longmeadow. He said "We won 4-0. It was the best game we ever played, and it was definitely really important to us."

Seniors Brandon Mancini, Derek Krow, Adam Depelteau, John Puduski, Larry Pelland, Jon Hathaway, Eric Wycoff, and Ryan Brittan were a big contribution to the Chicopee Comp Boys soccer team this year and will be missed. The team will still go on and hopefully will succeed in the seasons to come.

-Ashley Bernardos-

John Puduski, number 18, always puts in a ton of effort when he plays the game. Knowing that it was his last year, he definitely played the hardest he's ever played. "I can't believe it's over. I'm definitely going to miss playing soccer for our high school," says John Puduski.

Striving to steal the ball, Derek Krow, uses all his energy and effort to bring home the winning goal for his team. "It was definitely a great year for the boys soccer team," says Derek Krow.

Senior Jon Hathaway definitely has gone to some extreme heights when he plays the game. "Playing soccer is my life. I couldn't believe that it was my last year. I'm definitely going to miss playing for high school, but I'm still going to play after high school," said Jon Hathaway.

Always pulling off a good performance, Brandon Mancini tries to pass off the ball quickly to Eric Wycoff before their opponents get to it. The guys are always playing their best knowing that it was their last year of playing.

Danny Bernard pauses to figure out where he's going to go. Being a sophomore on the varsity team is a great honor, and he hopes that his future years playing soccer will be good ones.

CROSS COUNTRY

The 2004 season for the Chicopee Comp Girls Cross Country Team was a very successful one. Many of the girls on the team achieved personal records in the sport, and they also received a new coach, Ms. Julie Thayer who said "I'm really looking forward to next season. There is still a lot of potential on the team. I also have a better understanding of what to do and what not to do."

A couple of people on the team received awards for the outstanding season. Lyuba Tsikhotskaya was voted the team MVP, and Sara Taslitt received the coaches award. "Everyone deserves a lot of recognition; we all worked really hard and improved all our times," said co-captain Sara Taslitt. As for the future of the team, Sara says "The future looks good for the team. Three of the top runners are returning, and there is still a lot of potential."

Boys Cross Country

Running the Show

The 2004 Boys Cross Country Team finished with two wins and five losses for the season, with their two wins against Holyoke High School and Chicopee High School. The Comp team consisted of six boys-- three sophomores and three juniors. Although most of those were new to the team this year, all will return ready to run for the next season.

Under the coaching of Mr. Davis, a four year boys cross country coach, the boys on the team were pushed to do their best in each and every meet. Although the team overall wasn't as successful in terms of season record as coach Davis hoped that it would be, there were two select individuals who stood out throughout the 2004 season.

Steven Czupryna, with 4 league wins, made 6th in Western Mass and finished 29th in States. Steve also set a school record at Chicopee State Park with a time of 16:22. Because of his outstanding performance, Steve Czupryna received First Team All-Scholastic recognition. The other individual was Rick Rankin, who also reached beyond the surface and had six top ten finishes over this past season.

Coach Davis is proud of his team, although he wishes the boys had done a little better in their times and accomplished a little bit more. According to Steve Czupryna, "The team showed a lot of improvement throughout the year. We're all looking forward to training hard next summer and competing at a higher level as a team next year."

Run, Czupryna, Run! Being a determined athlete, Steve made 6th in Western Mass and 29th in States. Czupryna also received All Scholastic Division status.

Comp Golf

A Hole In One

Led by coach Mr. Dobecki and captain Sean Bergeron, the golf team had more wins than losses this season. The team has about seven regulars with various alternates. Wade Eckert, who says his strength is his skill at "chipping" had the best individual score with 37 strokes at the Springfield meet. Wade has been on the team for three years and said that Sean Bergeron, Lee Racine, and Matt Dunphy are the only team members to get a hole-in-one in their careers.

The team did well enough to go to the Western MA golf tournament on October 18th. Although they did not place in the tournament, they did get the day off from school to attend. One bright spot in the tournament was that Lee Racine did well posting an 80 in 18 holes. The team is mostly juniors, so hopes are high for a very strong season next year. According to Ben Kwiatkowski, "if things go well, we could take western MA."

One memorable thing about being on the golf team that was mentioned by both Ben Kwiatkowski and Wade Eckert, was the help of assistant coach Ralph "Pops" Champagne. "Ask anyone on the team, and they will say that Pops is 'like a god'," says Ben who continued "he fixes everything from golf to life." Others described Pops as just a great all around guy.

Pops!, Chris Sawa, Matt Dunphy, Ben Kwiatkowski, Sean Berseron, Wade Eckert, Colin Boone, Lee Racine, and Kevin Paul. Missing: Ryan Dube.

Kevin "Smevin" Paul marks his ball. He had a surprisingly good season. The team uses his nickname, but it is not clear if he likes it.

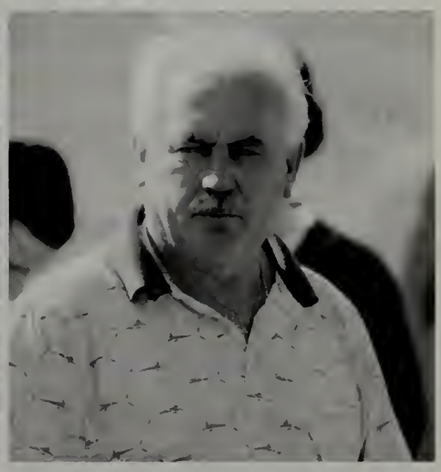
Chris Sawa marks his ball. Chris enjoys golf and hopes to do well next season.

Wade Eckert, the joker of the team, contemplates his grip and form. Don't let his relaxed personality fool you-- he is a more than competent golfer.

Colin Boone looks perplexed when his ball veers violently right to left.

Sean Bergeron says "We had a pretty fair season; I enjoyed most of it!" As captain, Sean helps keep the team organized.

Matt Dunphy concentrates on hitting a hole in one. He is one of the few members of the team to have actually accomplished this feat.



Coach Bill Debeki observes the superior putting of Ben Kwiatkowski.

"Our team had more wins than losses this season, and we made it to Western MA" - Wade Eckert

Hockey

Skating Towards Their Goals

The Comp Hockey Team started off the season the right way with some early wins. They finished the season with a final record of eight wins, five losses, and four tied games. The team is working hard with the help of Coach Bowden to make improvments. The team made it to the playoffs this season, but unfortunately lost the first game. They tried their best and succeeded in many ways such as working on individual skills. Next season will be tough with the loss of the seniors on the team, but hopefully with a lot of practice and some new team members the Comp Colts Hockey team will become a stronger team.

The team plays defensively and tries to get the puck away from the opposing team. With two on one who do you think will win?

Peter Soillis tries to get the puck past the goalie and score a point for his team to eventually win the game.

Dan Godek , the team captain, is attempting to get the puck and score a goal for the Colts and win the game. Dan was the top scorer for the team this season.

Kevin Godek skates down the ice hoping to reach the puck before the other team. His intense efforts have paid off and helped the team have a sucessful season.

Avoiding a defender, 11th grader Sean Francisco moves down the ice.

Getting rough on the ice, Kevin Waller takes his duty to fight and win seriously. Injuries are inevitable in Hockey, but nobody was hurt here.

Jay LaFleur has been a huge part of the team this year. By the end of the game, he succeeded in stopping enough of the shots on goal to help get the team a win.

Swimming

Taking a Lap Through the Show

This is one happy team. You can tell that camaraderie runs high in the Comp swim team. Woo Woo!!

Swimming for the win, these two members of the Comp swim team give it all they've got. Even though one team had a winning season, and one had a losing season, everyone on both the girls and the boys teams tried their hardest and improved overall.

Patiently anticipating the results of the meet, Ben Maurer, Ben O'Neil, and Joe Krzystofik cheer on their teammates.

GIRLS

Although the girls had a losing season this year with three wins and seven losses, the team improved greatly throughout the season. With no seniors on the girls swim team, all will return next year with much expected improvements.

Sophomore Jen Bernier was most improved on the team. She swam the backstroke during the season nine times, and at each meet, she improved her times. The leader in points throughout the season was junior and captain, Nicky Lazer.

Mr. Mercer is excited about next year's team, and he knows that the team times and accomplishments will improve.

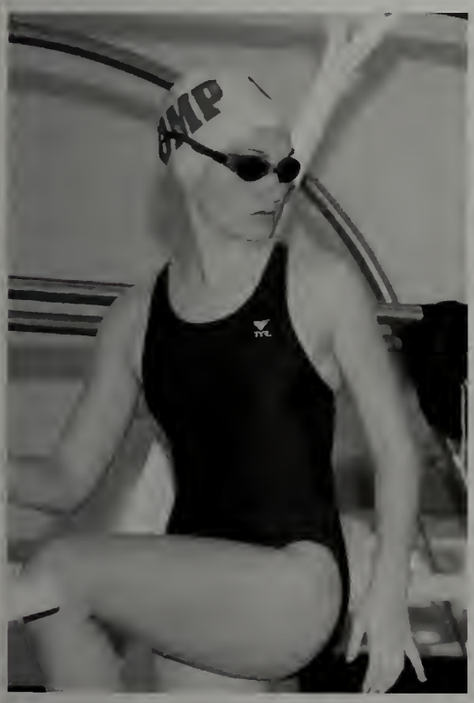
Maryanne Grey prepares to climb the starting block. Although she's been a member of the Ajacs team for a few years, now being a member of the Comp team has helped her improve her times.

BOYS

The boys had an excellent season this year with eight wins and only two losses. They placed third overall in the league. One particularly memorable win was a close match with Belchertown. Seniors Nick Stone and Jon Ruell contributed strong performances, and they will be missed next year.

Junior Michael Starke has put in six years between the Chicopee Amberjacks and the CCHS team. His best time in his best event, the 100 breastroke, is 1:13. Michael was one of several team members who made it to western MA finals. Jon Ruell also finished 11th in States.

Physical Education teacher and Coach Mr. Mercer must be proud of this hard working group and of all of their accomplishments.



Coach of both the girls and the boys team, Mr. Mercer watches intently as the swim teams reach for yet another victory. Both teams improved greatly over the season.

Cheering on their team is what they do best. Team members Mike Long, Ben Maurier, and Jen Bernier support their team. Without the support of their teammates, no one would perform as well as they do.

Sophomore Jennifer Buchanan and Junior Nicky Lazer take time from their busy schedules as captains. These two girls give it all they've got to perform the best as they can.

Swimming is a passion. It's a life-style. It's a sport. Proving that swimming is everything to them, Kaylie Drainville and Sam Cervonayco push their hardest and pull through for team wins and personal bests.

A NEW ACT.....

The Girls Soccer Team had an especially fresh start this season this year due to their new coach, Mr. Carvalo. Becoming used to a new coach was difficult at first, but it all worked out in the end. The team had a really good season this year in large part because of the six seniors that helped lead the way. Knowing that it was their last year of being able to play for the team made them strive harder. Soccer takes a lot of skill for a person to do well. You have to be physically and mentally focused on the game if you are to do your best.

Kerrie Bowden summed up the season this way: "I had a lot of fun this season, and we tried our hardest and did the best that we could."

The game that everyone looked forward to was the Chicopee High vs. Chicopee Comp game. Everyone went to the game, and the stands were packed. Despite a strong effort Comp unfortunately lost against Chicopee High, but everyone gave them a lot of support and knew they tried their best. For sheer effort, that is one game that no one will forget. Caitlin O'Connor said, "This was probably one of the best seasons I have ever had. I know we put a lot of effort in our games, and in the end it came down to one last game. Unfortunately we lost by one point and just missed it, but it was an awesome season."

-Heather Banks-

Number 21, Katelyn Jopson, tries to make it to the goal line. Even with an injured knee, she still tried her hardest and was still the fastest on the team. "Even though I had an injured knee, it didn't effect my playing skills," said Jopson.

Number 14, Miranda Beaulieu takes the ball from the opposing team hoping to score a goal. "I'm going to miss everyone when I leave. I really hope everyone has a good season next year just like we had this year," Miranda said.

Second Row: Coach Carvahlo, Amanda Kasza, Nicole Hill, Katherine Paul, Amanda Barrows, Katelyn Jopson, Julianne LaBrecque, Amanda Ciecko, Kylie Brown, and Ashley Zykowski.

Teamwork means working together physically and mentally. That is what this team did this year. The Chicopee Comp girl's soccer team became closer than they had ever been. The teamwork showed through the games that they won and in the accomplishment of going to the tournament.

Indoor Track

Running for Applause.....

The Chicopee Comprehensive Girls and Boys Indoor Track team, had a great season lead by captains Jaime Lapierre and Sara Taslitt. The teams main focus this year was encouraging each other and setting personal records.

This year six members qualified to compete for the PVIAC meet. Michelle Duncan who has done track for all four years qualified for the relay, Jaime Lapierre also who has done indoor track all four years qualified for the 55m and the relay, Sara Taslitt qualified for the relay, Natalie Asselin qualified for the one mile, and Margaret Terkelsen qualified for the relay. Jaime Lapierre also qualified for and competed in states.

The indoor track team focused this year on the goal of being a strong connected team. There were team unity gatherings every Thursday before the boys and girls track meets. Everyday after every practice, they would have a pasta party at one of the seniors' houses. "I was very impressed how everyone would step up to fill in slots that were open for the events in the meets. The seniors set an excellent example for the underclassmen," said Coach Julie Thayer.

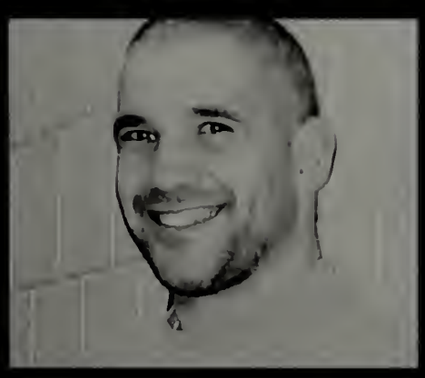
Coach Dominick of the Boys Indoor Track Team puts in a lot of his time and effort to make the team successful in their meets. He pushes them to their limit to make sure that they do their best.



Seniors Tanya Pompei, Jamie Lapierre, Coach Julie Thayer, Sara Taslitt, and Michelle Duncan get together. The girls knew that it was their last year, so they made it their best.

Seniors Jon Hathaway, John Puduski, and Nathan Davis, were a big part of the indoor track team.

Jamie Lapierre, and Sara Taslitt became closer through the years of doing indoor track.

Michelle Duncan, Tanya Pompei, Jamie Lapierre, and Sara Taslitt, get together for a moment to take one last picture together. Their last year they put in tons of effort and made their best.

The girls and boys indoor track team this year was much smaller than recent years. The group this year though was very close- knit. They practice together and always made sure that everyone is working their events to their fullest. "Even though we're not that big of a team, we were still successful in our events, and we were much closer than in my previous years of doing track," said Jamie Lapierre.

BOYS BASKETBALL

SHOOTIN' FOR THE SHOW.....

Difficult seasons come even when a team is working as hard as they can. Every day during the season, the varsity basketball team practices and tries their hardest on the court. Even though they had a tough season, they still gave it their all and strove for success.

The team looked up to their captain and upperclassmen. Keith Hart said "I look up to Mike Ciaccio because he has the experience on the court. He's a great teammate, and he is a fun guy to play with." The season this year didn't go as planned, but their hopes are high for next year. Senior Mike Ciaccio stated, "Throughout my four years of basketball, I have compiled many great lifetime memories especially this past season as captain."

Starter Keith Hart got injured in practice a couple of days before the big rivalry game against our cross-town opponents, the Pacers. Keith stated, "It's OK because next year we are going all the way."

Concentrating on his free throw, Ryan Dube goes to make the shot. Pressure mounts knowing that it is up to him to tie up the game.

These players take a moment to recover from the fierce gameplay and contemplate thier next move. Although the Pacers won, Keith Hart said that "next year, we are going all the way."

After scrambling around for the control of the ball, Chicopee Comp captured it. The game was well attended by fans.

Stephanie Blair, a sophomore, saw her share of varsity playing time this year. Occasionally, freshman and sophomores are pulled up from the junior varsity to help out on the varsity team.

Kerry Hurst, a junior on the varsity team, makes her move past her Chicopee High opponent. Though Comp lost against their rivals, it was a well fought game on the Lady Colts' behalf. Hurst has been playing since her freshman year and will be a valuable senior in the upcoming season.

Sometimes we like to call ourselves the magnificent seven, because that's usually all we have to play with." - Christie Sullivan

Katelynn Hamelin, sophomore, looks to the hoop on this break-away. Being only a sophomore is going to work in Katelynn's favor, since the girls basketball team will really be dependent on their underclassmen in the following seasons.

Being one of the three seniors on the varsity team this year, Christie Sullivan really took on her upperclassman role, leading the team in the best way she could. Here, Sullivan drives to the hoop guarded by Sarah Hunter #15 from Chicopee High.

Alex Vyce, the girls' basketball coach, looks on as his team fights for the win. After many years of being the head guidance counselor at Chicopee Comp, Vyce has now retired but has stuck with his girls to lead them to victory.

LET'S GET PUMPED!
GIRLS BASKETBALL

Walking into the gym after a less than perfect season with as much excitement, motivation and optimism as the Lady Colts did this year is evidence of the strong spirit of their team. Without looking back, the girls basketball team pushed themselves in the off-season to improve both their mental and physical game. Battling obstacles such as a lack of upperclassmen, a temporary loss of a key player, and prejudgments from their opponents, these girls wanted to prove their critics wrong. Half way through the season, the Lady Colts have managed a 2-6 record, already an improvement from last year. "Sometimes we like to call ourselves the Magnificent Seven, because that's all we usually have to play with," says co-captain Christie Sullivan. "We're looking forward to our second chance at the next Chicopee High game. It's hard to believe it's the last one I'll ever play," stated fellow co-captain Shauna Sullivan. With the will to win, the girls basketball team will continue to improve as the season goes on, and with each year to come.

"It was a little intimidating playing on the Varsity team this year. Our team is united though, and our captains are great role models," said sophomore Julianne LaBrecque.

"We had a rough season, but we stayed together and tried to help each other along the way. Our captains tried their best to make sure we had a great season. I'm looking forward to next year," stated junior Katherine Paul.

"We've proven that through hard work, team unity, and never giving up, we can accomplish more. As a captain, my job is to lead the team, set examples, and motivate everyone. I really enjoyed that responsibility," says co-captain Christie Sullivan.

"Being a captain is really important to me. Keeping the team united and making sure everyone gives their all is my job. Much improvement has been made since last year," stated co-captain Shauna Sullivan.

Julianne LaBrecque was one of the few sophomores on the varsity team. Playing for the Chicopee Girls Suburban Basketball team really prepared her for high school basketball.

CLUBS AND ACTIVITIES

A lot of high school students want to be involved in activities that they enjoy participating in. Clubs and activities give many students the opportunity to practice what they are good at and go forward with their interests. "Student Council and NHS help me find ways to give back to the community. It feels good to give my time to people who need it," says senior Stacy Haesaert.

Many students get involved with clubs and activities because its a break from school work. "Student Council gives me the opportunity to help students get involved with my school," say junior Maxine Guptar. Clubs and activities ease the struggles from hard classes and give you the chance to do what you love to do. And with over 20 different clubs and activities, everyone can be involved in something they love to do.

Putting a spin on time-out entertainment during the game, the Dance Team, called "Colts' Crew," is new to the list of clubs and activities this year. A highly popular activity, the Dance Team practices after school in the cafeteria.

Students on the Electrathon vehicle project work hard for several months before they go to competition. This project takes place after school and during activity periods during the school day.

Student Council, led by Mr. Czaporowki and Mr. Moritko, is the largest active club in Chicopee Comprehensive High School. There are many students from each class that help to make our school activities more fun and attractive to the rest of the student body.

PLAYING THE PART

CLASS OFFICERS

The class officers are the students that are in charge of the various events for their class. They keep track of all the planning that goes on throughout the entire school year. Without class officers, nothing would be done according to the students' liking. The Freshman class is the only class without any officers. The Senior class has the most responsibilities including collecting class dues, setting up the yearly cotillion, senior week events, and Frolics. The class officers are chosen by their peers during the beginning of each school year by a class vote.

The most important thing that the Sophomore, Junior, and Senior class officers want to focus on is their senior prom and senior week events. The class officers let us know when certain responsibilities and events are supposed to be taken care of and are coming up. Class dues are to be paid in full by the end of junior year for Senior week events or else the class officers can't do their job and make Senior year as memorable as it should be.

Library Aids

BOOKING THE THEATER

When you walk into the library, do you ever notice the two students working at the front desk? Well those students are Library Aids. Their main job is to help the librarians in any way they can. The Aids work closely with Ms. Crowther and Ms. Danek and are assigned sections of the library that they are responsible for. They put the books back where they belong and keep things organized. Other responsibilities they have are to help students and teachers find the resources they need. They also do record keeping and sign people out on the pass. "I love being a Library Aid. It is very relaxing to be in the quiet library. Plus you can do some homework and study," said Shannon Abad.

Scanning the old bar code-- Jeff Benard wields a laser like few others.

Library Aides must be techonologically proficient. They must know how to troubleshoot computers, and properly set up students with the many laptops that are available. Here, Elizabeth Stefaniak boots up a laptop.

Derek Krow, Ashley Chapdelaine, and Caitlin O'Connor work with three students from Chicopee High on the Student Advisory Council.

Student Advisory Council

Student Advisory Council is a small group of students who attend regular School Committee meetings to let the people who govern our school system get some student input. In past years they have been involved with issues such as getting rid of the tardy room and instituting senior privileges. This year they started a suggestion box where students can communicate ideas that they would like the Student Advisory Council or even perhaps the School Committee to address. The suggestion box is in Ms. Fennessey's office. These students are very dedicated and show a great deal of professionalism at the meetings. Their courage is apparent in their willingness to communicate in public(even on Channel five!) in a serious way about important educational issues.

TV STARS...

Knowing you are going to be on television is a great motivator. Tough competition is another. As Schools Match Wits is aired on channel 22. The advisor is Mr. Czaparowski. Adam Depelteau, Erik Wyokoff, Ryan Hicks, Caitlin O'Connor, Michael Orzyzga, Nathan Belisle Steve Czupryna, Brian Dooley and Joe Lemme are all part of the As School Match Wits team. Chicopee Comprehensive has a strong team. "We were feeling extremely confident going into the 'lightning round,' so you could imagine how disappointed we were to lose our dominating lead," says Adam Depelteau. Steve Czupryna, an alternate for the team, explained that the team has weekly meetings from September until December. "We prepare by having trivia question practice sessions. Mr. Czaporowski or students bring in the questions that we answer." He says he plans to be on the team again next year and that his strengths are math, and sports & entertainment. They always have a bunch of fun at these meetings.

Debate

Afza Safeer tries out a new rebuttal as she prepares in Mr. Jendrysik's room before a meet. In rebuttal, debators get four minutes to make their final arguments and hopefully seal their case.

Do you like sharing your opinion with others? Perhaps the debate team is right for you. The team is Kali Drainville, Nathan Belisle, Afza Safeer, Tracey Williams, Samantha Guilbert, and Tina Densmore. The captain of the debate team is Tina Densmore and the co-captain is Samantha Guilbert. This year the topic of the debate is about the efficacy of the United Nations.

Members of the Academic Decathlon had to deal with the truly unexpected this season. While they worked extremely hard and prepared for months, a transportation glitch prevented them from participating in this year's competition. Stacy Haesaert said "after waiting for half an hour and driving around trying to find the bus, we ended up in the Chicopee High School parking lot. It was the highlight of the day."

Jill Rodowicz brought in her medal from last year.

Helping the Community... One Act at a Time

Between school, homework, sports, and jobs, high school students have little free time to spare. Keeping up good grades, being involved in school activities, and being a role model for fellow students is hard work - just ask any member of the National Honor Society. The advisor, Ms. Parzych, is proud of each and every one of these students and gives to these students the respect and acknowledgment that they deserve.

NHS gives students the opportunity to give back to the community, while doing well in school. Volunteer hours, at least 25 a year, are a necessary requirement for all members of this society. Also, members need to keep an 88 average throughout all four terms, have good conduct in all courses, and be an active participant in either a sport or a club or else they will be put on probation.

There are eighteen juniors and twenty-nine seniors in the National Honor Society. All of these students volunteer in a variety of ways including tutoring, serving food at Lorraine's Soup Kitchen, helping out at middle school PTO meetings, and working at school blood drives. As long as the student uses their own time to contribute to the community, the hours are counted toward their twenty-five required service hours per year.

NHS holds an induction ceremony each December to honor their new members. The ceremony concentrates on the four elements of the National Honor Society: knowledge, service, character, and scholarship. Each year, there is an honorable speaker invited as well. The National Honor Society is recognized across the United States and is a highly reputable society to be a participant in.

Ms. Parzych, along with the rest of the students and faculty at CCHS, are very proud of the members of the National Honor Society.

Key Club

With more than 50 members and a lot of talent, the Chicopee Comp Key club has brightened countless faces through its extraordinary devotion to serve the community. Just within the time span of 2004, these members have committed to over 200 hours of service to our community and are eagerly looking forward to more.

Although all of the events that the Key Club participated in were unforgettable, some left a more lasting impression on members compared to others. The monthly spaghetti suppers raise money for various foundations. During the one held in January, members had the privilege of meeting Molly Bish's father, who was processing individual booklets with fingerprints and photo identification. By participating, we were able to help spread his message.

Another event was the annual Barry School vacation camps held in February and April. "My favorite activity is the Barry School vacation camp because it's so much fun working with all the little kids and making friends. It was really a lot of fun, and I couldn't wait to sign up again this year," said Paulina Lach, the Key Club Secretary. Another event was our annual and successful Safe Trick or Treat night; we received over 100 little trick-or-treaters for fun and games. The Rays of Hope Walk, the Kiwanis Silent Auction, and a Veteran's Day Lunch-In were other rewarding activities. The Key Club has also been collecting aluminum can tabs that are weighed in at the conclusion of the drive held each year. These can tabs are used to buy medical supplies and equipment to benefit Shriner's Hospital.

All activities are joyous, and members always get something out of their experiences while participating in community service. "I love doing community service, and I'm glad to see all of these individuals around me acknowledging my great efforts. They always wish for all of us to come back. I feel that there's nothing more pleasing to do than donating my free time for others" stated Samantha Bach, the Key Club Treasurer.

The personal goal set for each individual was a total of 50 hours of community service. "We were pleased that at least seven members had reached this goal by the end of 2004. Three of them had actually reached 75 hours, and we're still expecting more to join this list by the end of the school year!," exclaimed Mr. Parsons, the Key Club Advisor.

Many leaders from organizations have written stating that they could not have done it without us. "It's really nice to be acknowledged from these people because then you know that your time spent there was greatly appreciated and worthwhile" said Kimberly Dearing, the Key Club Vice President. These members are all donating their own free time that they could be doing something else with, but instead, they do this. And more importantly, they seem to love what they're doing. They are hardworking. They are extraordinary. They are putting smiles on many faces. They are making a difference.- Meghan Deslauriers

"Safe Trick or Treat night was an especially good event. We had games and candy for kids in the Gym" says Shannon Abad after a Key Club meeting. Here she listens to a guest speaker talk about their parent organization, the Kiwanis Club.

Electrathon

In their second year of competition, the Electrathon Club placed in the top four teams. When asked if anyone deserved special recognition Mr. Clark said, "They all deserve recognition. Each and every one had an important role." Mr. Clarke and the team work most closely with Mr. Gassnola who is co-advisor. Electrathon also draws on learning from math, electronics, science, and many other fields.

CAD (Computer Aided Design) student, Darryl Gagnon in his first year in the club helped design a new rear end of the car. Here he tightens up some connections.

Student Council

SHAPING THE SCHOOL

Student Council does many things to make our school a more exciting and fun environment by boosting school spirit and morale. They organize and decorate for school dances and events. Student Council also helps students to become more involved in school activities and events.

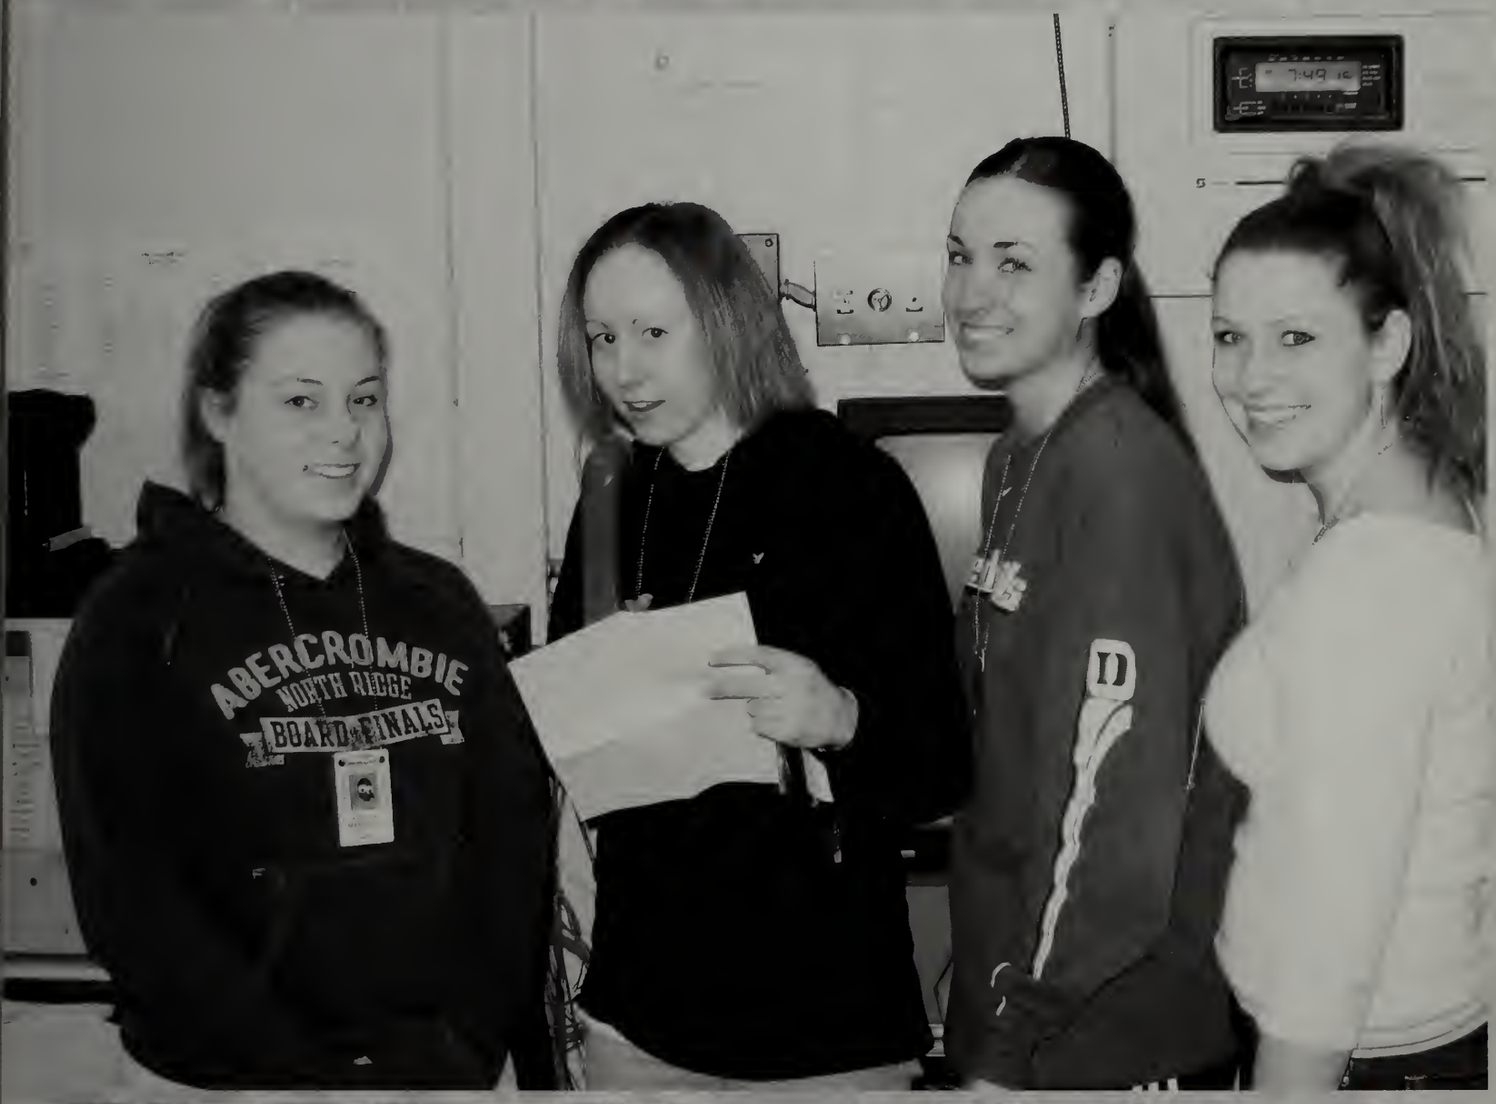
Student Council is probably the largest student organization with roughly eighty numbers; they are so big they have to meet in the cafeteria. They meet every other Thursday for twenty minutes to an hour. Members discuss new ideas for different kinds of dances and what the school is going to do during spirit week. They even make Christmas cards for kids in Shriner's Hospital. One new event this year which was a big success was the "Penny Wars" that raised about three thousand dollars for the Jimmy's stuff the stocking fund. Students were especially competitive about Penny Wars because they knew that whoever won the war would get points toward spirit week. Student Council is also planning new events for spirit week which advisor Mr. Moritko and Mr. Czaporowski are hoping to make new and fresh! This year we will have pajama day, dress up day, "mystery day," color day, and of course the rally. Spirit week is definitely the most important event of the whole year, and for the seniors it going to be their last.

The Student Council advisors are Mr. Cazporowski and Mr. Moritko.

Jessica Dorunda borrows Ms. Bujnicki's desk to write a reminder to herself about what she needs to do for spirit week which is only a few days away. Student Council is a lot of hard work but is also enjoyable.

The students put in a lot of effort to make Christmas cards for the kids at Shriners hospital. They worked extra hard so that so everyone could get one.

Student Council officers Katie Marcotte, Amanda Gauthier, Shuana Sullivan, and Sarah Peloquin, work together to make school events more fresh and exciting. "I was glad that I got to be one of the officers for the Student Council. I tried to put a lot of my ideas into the dances and the events," said Sarah Peloquin. Here they deliver an announcement about the spirit dance. Unfortunately, later in the day it was cancelled due to inclement weather.



Student Council is a place to get together to think of ideas for events and dances in high school. The juniors this year definitely put in a lot of effort and made it a good time. Chelsea Rice and Matt Vallan do their part.

Even the sophomores put in their effort to decide what events are going to be in the spirit rally and what the dress up days are going to be during that week. Lasharie Weems brainstorms during a meeting; she is also in the Key Club.

Being Santa isn't easy, but Keith Fennessey did it better than ever.

Stephanie Grezelak as Mrs. Clause, patiently listens to the story when Courtney Young is not looking happy at all.

What a gathering! Santa reads to the elfs and helpers so they could be good like they always should be.

THE REALITY OF THE DRAMA

Drama, Drama, Drama is everywhere in high school-- especially for the Drama Club. Their hard work and dedication shows right through when the spotlight is on. At Comp, there is one Christmas play and two spring plays during the year. The plays are picked from the students and advisors in the club. Practicing two to three times a week definitely shows a passion for acting. Ms. Fields puts in many hours of directing the students and Ms. Counts, as a Co-advisor, assists her with small things. "The students in Drama Club all work very hard. Ms. Fields does an excellent job directing young actors and actresses," -said Ms. Counts.

The elfs of the play look on while reading a special Christmas story. They let the spirit of Christmas over come them.

Newspaper

EXPRESSING YOUR MIND

The school newspaper is a way of exploring issues and expressing ideas about events that go on in school and out. For the first time in years, making The Comp Chronicle is accomplished only as an after school activity instead of a class during the day. The course will hopefully gain enrollment and be able to held as a day class again next year. Meeting Tuesdays is challenging, but out of those meetings comes articles about departmental news, student profiles, and all the other writing.

Creativity also comes into play when students submit their own writing, stories, and poems. Working on the Chronicle also requires a lot of time from students and faculty. Their hard work and expression allows the Chronicle to continue to be an important part of what goes on at Comp.

" I wrote about three new teachers each month and interviewed them."- said Shauna Sullivan during lunch.

Band

"Band is basically a group of people coming together that all have playing an instrument in common. We always have fun times, and it's been the best experience of my life. Everyone has equal talent, and puts in an equal effort." - Dan Leatherwood.

When you have a group of people that have something in common and come together to share strengths, you create fun times and memories that will always last. That was the case this year with Chicopee Comp's band. Every day period five, and after school on Thursdays, a group of kids come together to make music. Dan Leatherwood, who is an 11th grader here and has been in band for 6 years, said he's had an awesome experience: "Band is basically a group of people coming together that all have playing an instrument in common. We always have fun times, and it's been the best experience of my life. Everyone has equal talent, and puts in an equal effort." Dan plays the clarinet and saxophone.

Band recorded two songs last year and this year collaborated with chorus to make a CD. The two favorite songs that the band likes to perform are "Eye of the Tiger" and "Desperado." The concerts take place in the Spring and during Christmas time. Also, they march and perform during the St. Patrick's Day parade. Mrs. Boroweic is the music teacher, and she has helped all the kids with their skills to help make them sound stronger. Without her help and guidance, they would not have been able to accomplish all of their goals.

Student Advisory Groups

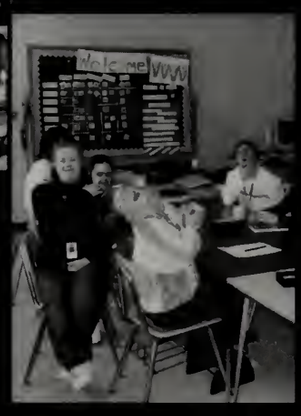
It's new. It's not a club exactly. It's called an advisory group, and every student and teacher in the building belongs to one. The idea behind the advisory groups is to give all students another adult, besides their Guidance Counselor, with whom they can talk and raise issues or concerns.

Advisory groups also offer a little change of pace during the day. With MCAS and increasing expectations everywhere, the pressure is always on to learn more in less time. Advisory groups are there to remind us that we are human beings-- that a little relaxation, discussion, fun, or social time is a necessary part of life too. Every advisory group is different, and they all are run with input by the students and the adult. Some play games, some talk about whatever is on their minds, some get free food, some discuss issues important to students, but most do a little bit of all of those things. One or two are even looking into doing some charitable work for various causes.

At first, most students didn't know what to expect. "I didn't really know what they were about," said Eric Dube in the first week. But most students settled in after a while. Just remember, Advisory groups are whatever you make of them.

Ms. Thayer's advisroy group works on making cards. Due to limited space, two or three groups meet in the Cafeterias at a time.

Ms. Franklin, facilitates her advisory group in the cafeteria. They react to Rorschach Test images.



Everyone is having a good time in this advisory group.

Chorus

Chorus is a great elective that is becoming more and more popular at CCHS. Performing cover songs from Broadway musicals and some of their own tunes, chorus has even released another CD this year which is based on their live concerts which are held twice a year. The concerts take place in the school auditorium with one performance in the winter and one in the spring.

The number of students who joined chorus has increased since last year from about twenty members to now about thirty. "It is a free period to just relax and sing," said sophomore Rachel Paquette. "Chorus is really great because I know it will help me with what I want to do when I get out of school. Even if you aren't looking into a music career, it is a great class to take because you learn the basics of singing and develop a great singing voice," said Laura Buchanan. Laura, along with Kerry Bowden, Laura Coloumbe and Tara Starke are four seniors who are admired for their strong voices and ability to carry chorus to success.

Carly Siano and Nikki Wagner take a break to show off their voices during chorus.

Jessica Michon, Larisa Gargun, Nikki Wagner, Laura Buchanan, Laura Columbe, and Jacqueline Lea gather around the piano to sing along during Ms. Boroweic's fourth period class.

YEARBOOK

PUTTING the program together

Picking up a yearbook allows one to look back on all the times and memories we've made throughout the high school years. It is a time to reminisce and read what close friends had to say when they signed your book. The yearbook staff puts much time and effort into making this book.

Jessica Vannasse and Mr. Brown, the yearbook advisor, proofread Jess's story. She picks up some pointers on how the story can become more effective.

Itty bitty freshman look back in their first year, and later realize what a blur most of it was, having discovering new faces who would soon be good friends. Sophomores are excited about getting their class rings and becoming more part of the school. Juniors finally get closer to entering their senior year and look back on rivaling the seniors during spirit week. As seniors, one of the biggest moments of our lives comes at the end of the year. All of the times we shared will fade into a memory as graduation day comes and tears are shed. Friends say good-bye knowing they may not see each other for a while.

In yearbook, we hope to make every important memory last with a smile and a picture; we know the memories shouldn't be forgotten. In yearbook, we help create an image that you can go back to and think "what a year." The stress that the staff goes through, especially making deadlines, can be the hardest part of the journalism class. Working hard on pages, getting the facts, and following up on the details can be very satisfying. Holding the finished product makes it all worthwhile.

-Michele Rokowski

Ashley Bernardos spends most of her time on the computer making sure everything is done to perfection. For the yearbook, we need pictures to be aligned in the layout, captions should make sense, and stories should be well written. Making a yearbook is a lot of work but hopefully a success in the end.

Giving opinions and suggestions can be a big help when working on a layout. Here Megan Cormier and Maxine Guptar critique their pages to make them the best that they can be.

No one likes having their name spelled wrong in the yearbook. Every proof that comes back is carefully analyzed for any misprints. Stories are checked and all corrections are made, we hope. Lisa Jackson and Joanne Buchanan scan the names of the junior class for any typos.

Working together is a big part in putting the yearbook together. Heather Banks and Kate Beauregard are working hard on their individual pages but are sharing opinions on some of their work.

Editor Diana Galecki says "Being an editor is an honor. Everyone that helped with yearbook deserves all the credit. Everyone has different opinions about pages, but that's what makes a yearbook. I like helping others with their pages. I hope the staff and the rest of the student body likes our finished work. We have been working really hard on this yearbook."

Megan Sullivan and Jullian LaBreque are learning the basics on starting a page. During second semester we gain some new faces to the staff. Learning everything from scratch while others are busily at work can be difficult. Luckily they have managed to pull Mr. Brown aside for a mini lesson.

All lined up on the computers, Brittany Castonguay, Ashley Bernardos, and Kate Beauregard await patiently for the pictures they need for their layout to download. With hundreds of digital images on a few old computers, they can be very slow at times. Some of the staff gets frustrated, but with a little effort, everything gets worked out.

Sam Solano works diligently on the computer to have his pages ready for deadlines. Around deadlines, the staff is scrambling to hand all of their work in so they can be sent to the plant for the printing of the yearbook.

Gay Straight Alliance

Respect For All

The Gay Straight Alliance, also known as G.S.A. for short, is a club that is advised by Mr. Vanderzwaag. The group meets on Thursdays after school. The club is all about encouraging respect for all and about providing a supportive environment for gay, lesbian, and straight students in the school. They meet to discuss different topics such as attitudes and tolerance. The club is also designed to try and stop the abuse of gay and lesbian youth, and it encourages respect for different sexual preferences. The members of this club are part of a very open and proud group that stand up for the rights of people. The club is planning to attend the Pride March later this year. Other activities included the Halloween after school GSA party and awareness campaigns.

- Joann Buchanan -

Dan Leatherwood makes the morning announcements for the GSA. He is a vocal and active member of this group which is dedicated to tolerance and fairness.

These members chill out during the G.S.A. meeting. Mr. Vanderzwaag was busy talking with other students while these two spoke together.

Colts Crew

THE HIP HOP DANCE STYLE

Adding a little urban flavor to the school is the new after school program, Colts Crew dance team. They meet every Tuesday and Thursday in the cafeteria. Colts Crew is coordinated by Ms. Perreault. The team mostly focuses on hip hop, and they have several goals that they hope to accomplish over the years. The Colts Crew plans to perform at frolics, the Chicopee High - Chicopee Comp basketball game, and spirit week pep rally. The students have already achieved their biggest goal yet, namely, putting the Crew together. They now hope to encourage more students of the school to join in.

The Colts Crew has fun goofing around with the new dance moves they have just learned. "We want to help improve the school with something new" says Chancie Scott.

Art Club

A SHOW OF CREATIVITY

Although there are many art classes available to take during the school day, the students at CCHS are also offered a visual arts after school program. The Art Club also helps prepare for the annual art show. The club gives them an hour once a week to get to know other students interested in the same hobbies and to have extra time to work on class work or their own projects. For example, sophomore Dan Breton enjoys painting and drawing his own unique cartoons. According to Katie Houle, who is a senior this year, her favorite thing about Art Club is "getting to hear Mrs. Fahey sing." The advisors, Ms. Fahey and Mr. Moritko bring energy and laughter to the program. So if you are interested in Art and dedicated to working hard, then joining the Visual Arts after school program would be a good opportunity.
